MUNSAN, Korea — (AP)—Staff officers agreed formally today on the last secondary details for supervising a Korean armistice, settling their disagreement down to who will do the supervising.

The last of the minor problems was cleaned up, a U. N. Command communiqué said, when the staff committee reached "complete agreement on the ports of entry question."

The Allies then tried to solve the key issue by proposing again at Russia and Norway be dropped from the list of six "neutral nations" who will police the armistice. But the Communists insisted on including Soviet Russia.

The deadlock is so firmly established that they carried on the debate without either side once mentioning Russia.

Two other deadlocks stand in the way of a truce: (1) Whether the Reds will be allowed to repair their bomb-shattered airfields and (2) Whether prisoners of war will have a choice of going home.

The airfield question is not now under discussion. Armistice delegates told staff officers not to talk about it.

The prisoner problem was discussed freely by staff officers for a second day in off-the-record talks. They met in secret for two hours and 17 minutes but results were inconclusive, an Allied spokesman said. However, U. N. officers got a clearer idea of what the Reds were driving at.

CIO Lays Trap for Democrats

LANSING — (AP)—The Michigan Federation of Labor today warned Democratic county chairmen not to fall into a reappointment "trap" it claims is being laid by the CIO.

The Federation, in letters to all chairmen, charged the CIO is "careful it cannot obtain enough signatures to put its reappointment plan on the November ballot and therefore is trying to get democratic conventions to support

The Federation said its reappointment plan, for which signatures are now being sought, could maintain the present legislative system but merely would set up a method of forcing reappointment when the Legislature refuses to make it.

At least six more urban House members will be attained by such a plan, the Federation said, without splitting up cities and counties. This, it said, will prevent gerrymandering (an artificial alignment of area to provide districts dominated by one party.)

The Federation said the CIO plan would encourage "the most vicious kind of gerrymandering," could split up Kent and Genesee Senate districts and otherwise unwise and unworkable.

The Federation charged the CIO plan would leave the reappointment to Republican Secretary of State Fred M. Alger Jr. before his term ends and expressed fear Alger would be willing to rearrange legislative districts to take away Democratic seats in the Upper Peninsula, Oakland, Genesee, Muskegon and Wayne counties.

West Tightens Bonds With Germany; Soviet Proposals Challenged

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON — (AP)—The western powers gave evidence today of pushing ahead with plans to cement as much of Germany as possible to the western world regardless of Russia's tactics.

The toughened policy of the United States, Britain and France for dealing with German questions where Russia is concerned was spelled out in a note sent to Moscow yesterday and made public by the three nations last night.

Note Defies Kremlin
This 600-word declaration, responding to a new Soviet proposal of March 10 to start work on a German peace treaty, did two things:

1. It served notice on the Kremlin that western nations, in close cooperation with the anti-Communist government of West Germany, are firmly committed to tying Germany in whole or in part to a "purely defensive European community."

State Department officials who helped draft the note said this meant the European defense community being formed to enable West Germany to put military forces into Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's western defense army.

2. It challenged the Russians to prove the sincerity of their declared interest in unifying Germany by permitting a United Nations commission to go into the Soviet zone and find out what opportunity exists there for holding free elections.

Allies Get Tougher
The three powers thus made clear to the free peoples of Western Germany and other western countries their decision not to be diverted from the path of rearmament.

Officials here predicted the new notes would be followed by a long series of exchanges such as has taken place regularly in the past five years.

Eisenhower's Rivals Join Against Taft

(By The Associated Press)
Some of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's political opponents appear to be lining up on the General's side against Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio in the run for the Republican nomination for President.

Harold E. Stassen, in a somewhat surprising announcement yesterday, said he would split his delegate strength in Wisconsin with Eisenhower. Thus, if Stassen were to win 12 delegates in the April 1 Wisconsin primary, he would authorize six of them to vote for Eisenhower at the Republican convention in July.

Taft backers called this announcement "an evidence of weakness." They said it would bring additional votes to their man.

Earlier, the backers of California's Gov. Earl Warren in Wisconsin said that the delegates Warren wins in that state will go for Eisenhower if it appears that Warren cannot win the GOP nomination.

In Nebraska, a state-wide newspaper poll found Eisenhower and Taft neither listed on next Tuesday's presidential preference ballot, top choices of Nebraska Republicans.

The survey showed 42 per cent for Eisenhower, 39 per cent for Taft, 8 per cent for Gen. Douglas MacArthur and 7 per cent for Stassen, with other percentages scattered.

Of these names, only Stassen's is on the ballot. Write-in drives for Taft and Eisenhower are underway and a listed candidate favors MacArthur.

Stone Cargoes First Shipping At Detroit

DETROIT — (AP)—The steamer W. F. White passed Belle Isle downstream yesterday to open the 1952 shipping season here.

The steamer Calcite followed a half hour later. Both vessels are owned by the Bradley Transportation Co.

The vessels carried a load of stone from Calcite, 30 miles southeast of Alpena to the Ford Motor Co.'s Rouge plant.

Acquittal was voted yesterday.

Baby Vanishes; Found Unhurt In Grand Rapids

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. — (AP)—Brian Van Artsen, 2½ years, vanished from his home in fashionable East Grand Rapids last night.

The baby was found unhurt 15 minutes later in a nearby lawn across the street from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Van Artsen. But his disappearance for such a short time remained a deep mystery today.

East Grand Rapids police said there appeared to be no motive for abducting the child.

The toddler was wrapped in a blanket and apparently could not have gotten away from home under his own power.

The mother was in the basement of the home doing some washing about 9:15 p. m. She heard noises upstairs. She thought of her two children and ran upstairs.

She looked first in the room of her daughter, Bonnie, 3½. Bonnie was sound asleep. Then she looked in Brian's room. The crib was empty.

Mrs. Van Artsen screamed and ran to the front door. She found it ajar. Looking out she saw a man crossing the street but did not see the baby. She summoned police.

Shortly afterward, two neighbors men who were chatting at the curb on Kenesaw Ave. S. E. near the Van Artsen home heard a child crying.

Investigating they found the baby boy in the yard at the side of the home of Oliver Wagemaker Jr. at 1057 Kenesaw. The Van Artsens live at 1064 Kenesaw.

Secretary Of Navy Confers With Chiang

TAIPEH, Formosa — (AP)—U. S. Navy Secretary Dan A. Kimball and his party left for Okinawa and Tokyo today after discussing "common problems" with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Kimball told newsmen he was "very much impressed" with Chiang and pleased with the training progress made by Chinese Nationalist military forces under U. S. supervision. "I hope we can help them to do better," he added.

Bills For More Tax Money Roll Through Senate In Lansing

LANSING — (AP)—One of the big guns in the Republican drive for more state tax money, a $10,000,000 increase in the corporation franchise tax, comes up for a vote in the Senate today.

Yesterday the chamber passed and sent to the House its third new revenue bill of the session, a $650,000 measure to bring national banks under the state intangible tax on the same basis as domestic banks.

The measure rolled through without debate.

House and Senate committees reported out 55 bills yesterday, including the House-approved proposal for a constitutional convention.

The Senate approved a House bill making the widow of the late Judge Fred W. George of Port Huron eligible to receive half of a circuit judge's pension, $2,250.

The Senate was asked to proclaim Edgar A. Guest, Detroit newspaper poet, as Poet Laureate of Michigan. The move was sponsored by Senator George N. Higgins (R-Ferndale).

The House passed Senate bills raising the salaries of Supreme Court justices from $15,000 to $18,500 a year and members of the State Board of Cosmetology from $10 to $15 a day.

Four Democrats, Senators Blomdy, Bryant, Walsh and Ryall, all of Detroit, cast the sole votes against it.

Both chambers of the Legislature turned their wheels slowly today and yesterday to allow time for committees to meet the next-to-the-last deadline of the session. Today is the deadline for committees to report all bills except taxation and appropriation measures.

Heavy Bay Ice Balks Shipping

The opening of the shipping season in Escanaba was still dependent today upon how soon the weather and icebreaking operations at the Straits would permit the cutter Mackinaw to return here.

Exactly when the Mackinaw could move into Little Bay de Noc to reopen the channel, it made Saturday and since jammed closed by weekend storms was still unknown by Coast Guard officials here.

The Mackinaw reported to the USCG Woodbine, stranded here with a damaged propeller, that the "Escanaba harbor would open quickly as soon as favorable winds and temperatures materialized."

Lieutenant J. S. Thuma, captain of the Woodbine, reported this morning that, in great probability, icebreaking operations here would not be completed to permit the first ore carrier into the Escanaba harbor before the end of the week.

Mackinaw Opening Straits
Today the cutter Mackinaw was escorting the self-loading freighters Robinson and Bradley through the Straits of Mackinac.

The freighters, the first ships to steam through the Straits in the 1952 season, are carrying limestone for delivery at Gary and Buffington from Calcite, Mich.

The Straits link Lake Huron and Lake Michigan.

In other shipping plans announced here by the ice committee of the Lake Carriers' Association:

The steamer Lindabury and Robertson Jr. are to sail from Milwaukee today for Calcite.

Heekin In Milwaukee

The steamer Heekin is waiting in a Milwaukee berth for a north wind to blow ice out of Little Bay de Noc in order to get into Escanaba to load the season's first cargo of iron ore.

Shipping circles reported a different situation on navigation plans in the St. Mary's river, which leads into Lake Superior. Vessel operators, they said, are marking time, waiting to see whether the steel wage controversy will be straightened out.

Many operators dislike the risk of having ships run into Lake Superior for iron ore, then be unable to unload because of a steel strike, these sources reported.

Other Shipping Begins

The Interlake Steamship Co. expects to send out its first ships of the season today. The steamers Hobson and Schwab were to leave South Chicago this morning for Port Inland, Mich., and return with limestone. The Hanna freighters, Fink and Mudge, left Sandusky yesterday with coal for Milwaukee.

The tanker Imperial Sarnia of the Imperial Oil Co. fleet is to open the season at Port Colborne, Ont., today. She was to have left Sarnia yesterday with some 45,000 barrels of fuel oil.

Propose Increase In Pay For Health District Employees

The Delta-Menominee Health district board in meeting yesterday at Menominee approved a salary schedule which would increase the annual pay of the entire staff of the Health District by an average of 10 per cent.

There are 12 employees in the two-county health department and the proposed salary increase would total about $5,000 annually.

In establishing job classifications and salary schedule the board expressed the hope that it will assist in obtaining well-qualified employees and hold those now at work in the district. The proposed increase is in line with those granted state and federal employees.

Albert Kipper of Stephenson is chairman of the Health Board which comprises three supervisors from Menominee and three from the Delta county board of supervisors. The Delta representatives are Walter Mannie of Rock, who was present at yesterday's meeting, and Nevin Reynolds of Escanaba and William Hendrickson of Gladstone, who could not attend.

Besides discussion budget matters, the Health Board adopted a resolution advocating social security coverage for county health department employees.

Robber Admits Escanaba Jobs

Wisconsin's famous "noon hour" robber, now sentenced to prison, admitted a series of noon hour burglaries in Escanaba last winter with the help of an accomplice.

In one of the Escanaba robberies $530 was admitted taken from a safe in the office of Dr. Karl Gray.

The confession was received from Robert Boers of Antigo, Wis., at Marinette by Capt. John Finn of the Escanaba police department and Sgt. Edward Goldsmith of the Gladstone State Police post.

Besides the theft from the office of Dr. Gray, Boers confessed taking $8 from another office in half dollars from a small bank.

In addition he entered four other offices where he found no money.

With Boers was William White of Zion, Ill., who sat in a car on Ludington street while Boers made the rounds of offices of professional men during the noon hour. Boers said he divided the money with White, the officers reported.

In Escanaba they stopped at a hotel and drove from here to Zion, Ill. The day they left a jail break occurred in Escanaba and Boers and White followed side roads to avoid being stopped at main highway blockades.

Escanaba Elks Donate Blood

Escanaba lodge 354, B. P. O. Elks, has joined in the Michigan Elks campaign to collect 45,950 pints of blood for the armed forces in Korea. Cards have been sent out to individual members and the blood donor committee headed by Percy Weinberg is urging a prompt return of attached information cards so that details may be arranged for the actual blood donations, expected to be scheduled next month.

Lodge members prevented by age or physical condition from personal contribution of blood are requested to name a member of his family or friend to take his place and turn the name in to the Escanaba committee.

Actual reports from Korea have called attention to the shortage of blood and blood plasma needed to save lives in the field and at base hospitals. In some cases it has been necessary to call on Japanese civilians to fill the demands.

Pointing out that the giving of a pint of blood is a simple, painless process, not detrimental to health, the Escanaba committee is hoping for a 100 per cent response in the return of blood donation cards. Announcement of the time when the blood collecting unit will be at Escanaba will be made as soon as a date is arranged.

More Hunters; Less Deer Killed In 1951

LANSING—A—Few deer hunters will be surprised that a still incomplete tally of hunter report cards indicates there were more hunters and less deer killed last fall compared with a year ago.

The conservation department reported today that a preliminary report of the tally shows upwards of 369,000 hunters killed some 104,000 bucks.

In 1950, about 357,000 hunters got over 114,500 deer.

The final tally, which will include the southern Lower Peninsula and archery and special seasons, is still in preparation.

Results so far, showed that 38 per cent of those hunting in the regular season in the Upper Peninsula were successful, a drop from the 42.5 per cent success ratio of 1950.

In the northern Lower Peninsula nearly 25 per cent were successful, also a drop from about 28 per cent successful the year before.

Discuss School Building Plans

Preliminary discussion in re-consideration of Escanaba public school building plans was started last night at a meeting in Junior high school attended by the Escanaba Board of Education, the Citizens Advisory Council, and other interested persons.

Mrs. N. L. Lindquist, president of the Board of Education, conducted the meeting. About 30 persons attended.

Discussion centered around projected reasons for the two-to-one rejection by the voters of the first proposal to bond the school district for $1,100,000 and construct one new grade school building and a senior high school building; and the scope of the program to be planned for resubmission to the voters.

Ask Cost Estimates
Another meeting is to be called for further discussion of the program.

Meanwhile the Board of Education will consult with Perkins and Hill, Chicago architects retained by the board, to establish cost estimates on:

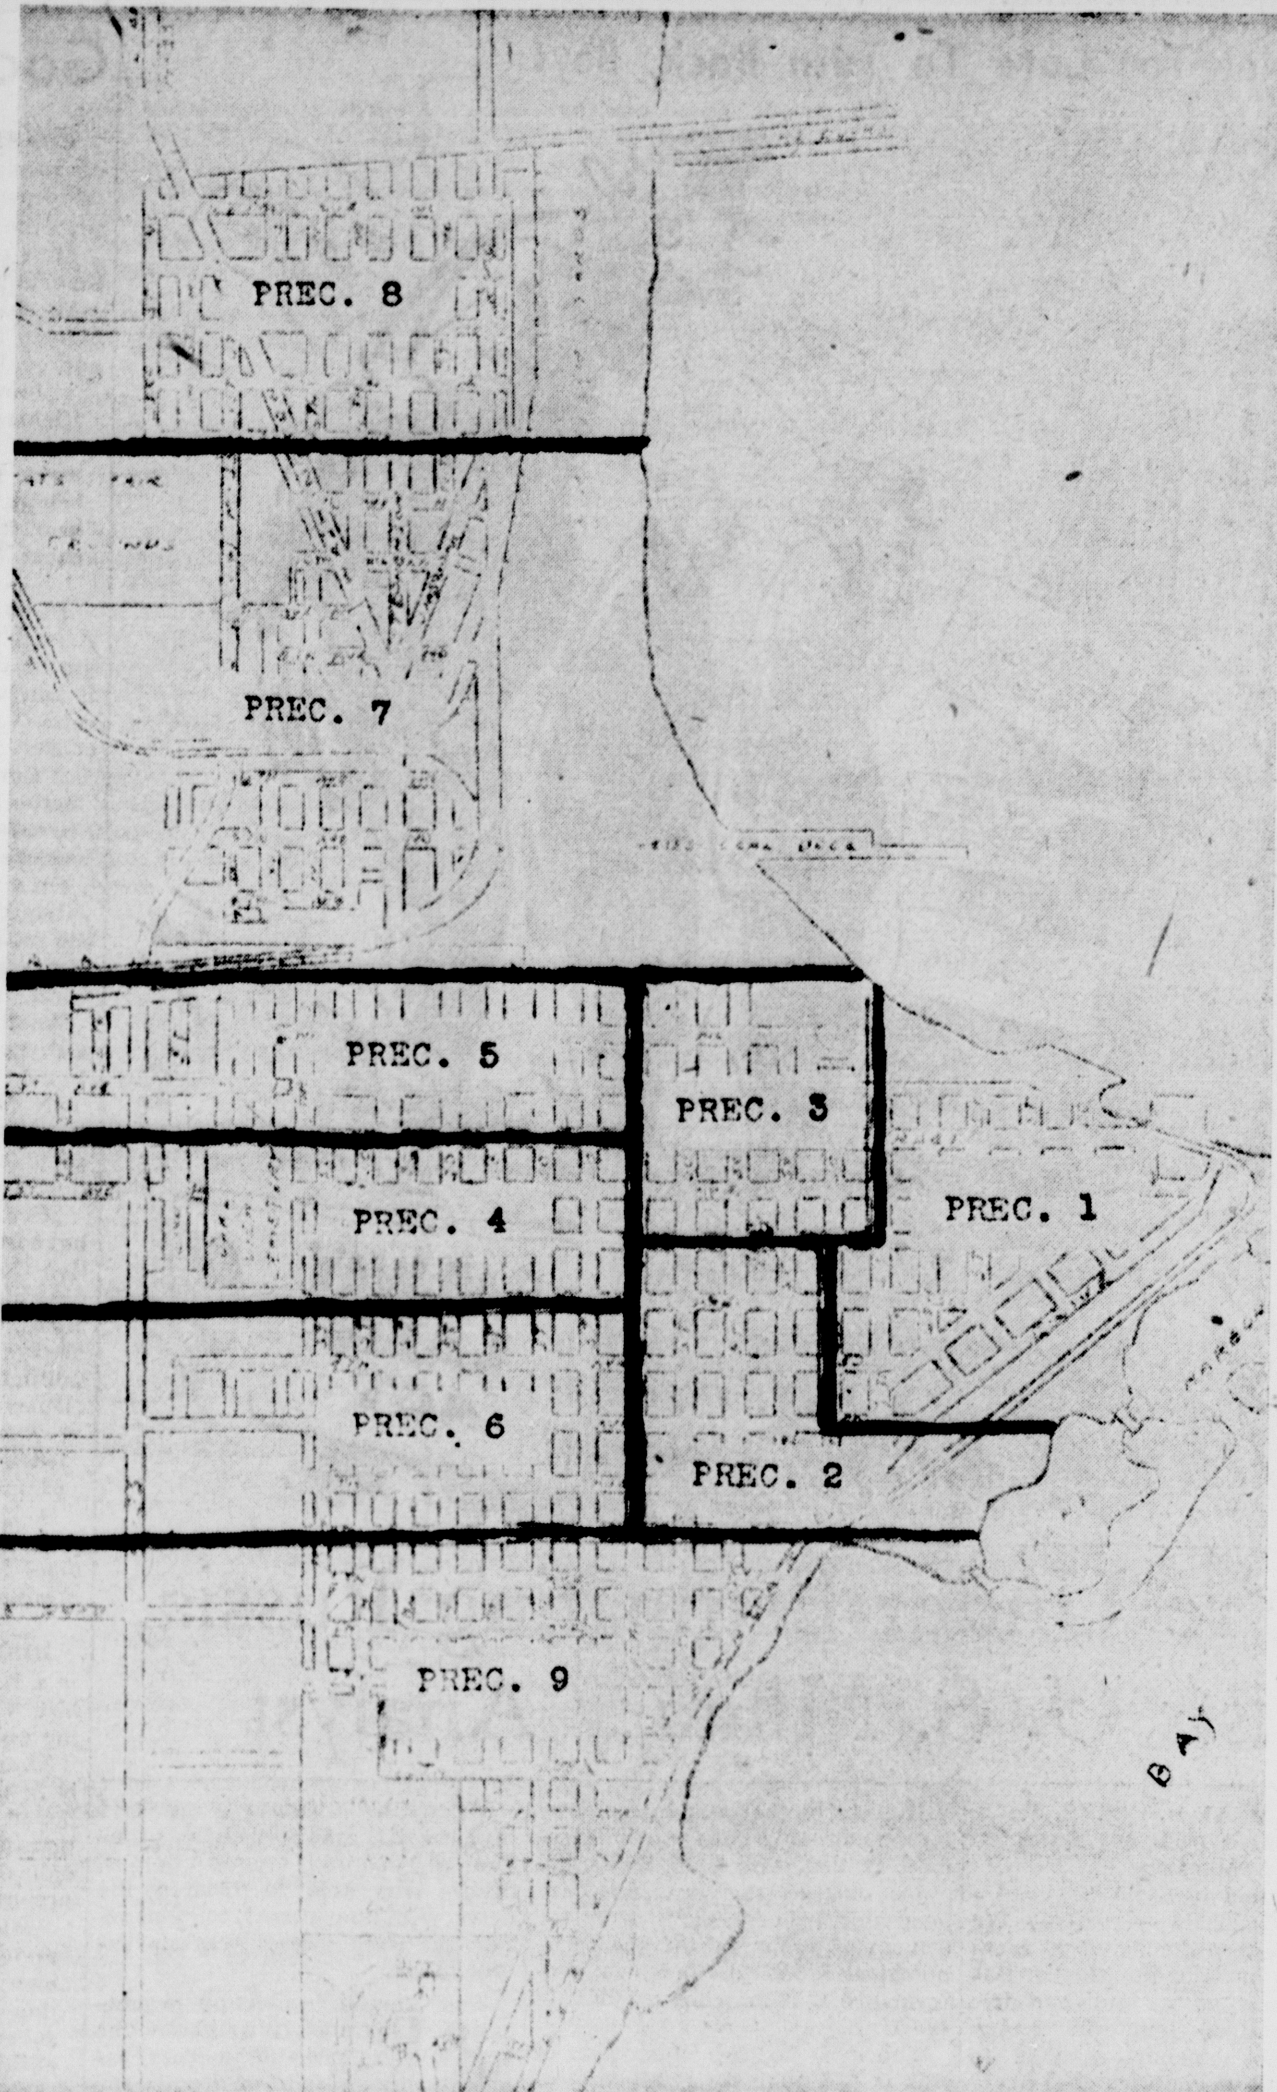

- 1—Construction of a new elementary school in the southwest section of the city to relieve overcrowding in the city grade schools.
- 2—Renovation of the present grammar school to make it less hazardous and more convenient if its use is to be continued.

Those In Attendance
Among those attending last night's meeting were:

Atty. William E. Anderson, chairman of the Citizens Advisory Council; Robert Clayton, Washington school PTA; Mrs. Ben Woodard, Washington school PTA; Inora Vader, Jefferson school PTA; T. D. Vinette, Escanaba Planning Commission; Mrs. William Weycker and Mrs. Ruby Swanson, PTA Council; M. R. Osund and M. H. Garrard Jr., Escanaba Lions Club; Joseph Ivens, Escanaba Rotary Club.

Establish Nine Voting Precincts In Escanaba

Escanaba will have nine rather than eight voting precincts and polling places when citizens go to the polls in the city election on Monday, April 7.

The addition of one precinct by dividing the former one precinct in North Escanaba will equalize the number of registered voters and should help avoid rush hour waiting by the voters at the polls.

The precincts as present on the accompanying map of the city are bounded by the following streets:

Precinct No. 1—South Seventh St., Second Ave. S. and South Eighth St. to the west; Fifth Ave. on the south, and by the bay shore.

Precinct No. 2—On the north by Second Ave., on the west by 12th St., on the south by Seventh Ave., and on the east by South Eighth St. to Fifth Ave. and thence to the bay shore.

Precinct No. 3—On the north by Third Ave. N., on the west by 12th St., on the south by Second Ave., and on the east by Seventh St.

Precinct No. 4—On the north by Ludington, on the west by the city limits, on the south by Third Ave. S., and on the east by South 12th St.

Precinct No. 5—On the north by Third Ave. N., on the west by the city limits, on the south by Ludington, on the east by North 12th St.

Precinct No. 6—On the north by Third Ave. S., on the west by the city limits, on the south by Seventh Ave. S., and on the east by South 12th St.

Precinct No. 7—On the north by 12th Ave. N., on the south by Third Ave. N., on the west by the city limits, and on the east by the bay shore.

Precinct No. 8—All of North Escanaba north of 12th Ave. N.

Precinct No. 9—All of the south part of Escanaba south of Seventh Ave. S.

In all descriptions the center of the street line marks the precinct boundaries.

The nine precincts in Escanaba, the number of registered voters in each precinct, and the polling places where voters will cast their ballots on election day, are as follows:

Precinct 1—Carnegie Public Library, 895 registered voters; No. 2—Franklin school, 981; No. 3—City Hall fire station, 770; No. 4—Jefferson school, 856; No. 5—Junior High school, 936; No. 6—Barr school, 1215; No. 7—Fire Station No. 2, 829; No. 8—Webster school, 777; No. 9—Senior High school, 1165.

Pick Jury To Hear Suit For Injuries

Selection of a jury to hear a civil case consisting of a personal injuries counter suit was sole action in this morning's session of Circuit Court. Selection was continued into the afternoon session.

The case, Anna M. Carlson vs. Walter Brunette and George Rivest, and Walter Brunette and George Rivest vs. Anna M. Carlson, is a counter suit in which opposing parties are claiming damages after an automobile accident near Masonville Dec. 22, 1949.

Action in the case was expected by Circuit Judge Glenn W. Jackson, presiding, to continue for the remainder of the week.

In action yesterday in the civil case in which John O. Erickson was claiming compensation for personal injuries received in an automobile collision with a vehicle owned by Nares Thibault and driven by Willard Thibault, the plaintiff moved to amend the declaration.

The court granted the motion to amend on the condition that the defendant be entitled to a continuance with a costs. The case is to be continued until the next term of Circuit Court.

Meet CHET. RICE

Candidate for CITY COUNCILMAN

Chet Rice, a successful local businessman living at 2403 Ludington Street is a widely known well drilling contractor in this area. Born in Delta County, January 7, 1910, he attended schools in Bark River and Schaffer, moved to Escanaba twenty two years ago and has been a substantial property owner and taxpayer in this city since that time. Is Vice-President of the Michigan Well Drillers Association, an organization numbering over 400 well drillers in Michigan. This organization works very closely with the Michigan Conservation Department and the State Health Department on problems of preventing and controlling pollution of wells, streams and lakes, and the conservation of ground water resources in this state. He is also a member of the National Water Well Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Rice have a son, Tom, serving with the U. S. Navy, and a daughter, Janet, at home.

They have been active members of St. Ann's Church for many years and Chet is a member of the Knights of Columbus.

He is also a member of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Chet has always taken a keen interest in local government and has attended an unusually large number of City Council meetings as an interested spectator for over ten years. His other hobbies are bird, duck and deer hunting.

A group of Chet's friends, familiar with his knowledge of city government and his long time habit of attending City Council meetings asked Chet to be a candidate for election to a four year term on the Escanaba City Council.

Friends of Chet Rice have paid for this political advertisement.

City Violating The Charter" - - Hayes

In his one minute radio talks, HAROLD C. HAYES, Independent candidate for Council, to fill the vacancy, spoke out against the city's practice of not keeping the counts of the Public Utilities separate, as provided for in the City Charter. He showed that the recent city audit bears his claim. "To amend the Charter now," said, "would be like robbing bank and after getting caught, trying let's amend the law and make it legal".

He further stated that this violation places a burden on our electric utility, in the form of higher rates, because this utility is to support the unprofitable plant utility.

Editorials—

Opening Of Navigation Here Delayed By Adverse Weather

NAVIGATION opening at Escanaba has been delayed by unseasonable storms despite the valiant effort of the U. S. Coast Guard to break open channels for shipping through Green Bay ice.

Only the urgency of the times and the demand of the steel industry for iron ore would bring the Coast Guard to Escanaba in late March. The USS Makinaw, the cutters Woodbine and Sundew, are here at the request of the Lake Carriers Association.

Decisions concerning the opening of navigation are made by the ice committee of the Lake Carriers Association. The shipping timetable for 1952 called for the first ore carrier to load at Escanaba by March 24.

The Coast Guard did its part. But what the Lake Carriers Association and the Coast Guard had not counted on was adverse weather conditions that in a few hours undid two days of icebreaking.

On Saturday as the Mackinaw opened channels in bay ice it appeared the strong northerly winds would be helpful in freeing the bay. But a shift of wind drove the ice back into the mouth of Little Bay de Noc and lowering temperatures cemented the floes together into deep windrows.

Earlier the cutter Woodbine had damaged her propeller and was forced out of service to dock at Escanaba. Then the Sundew, 180-foot cutter, jammed in the windrowed ice and had to call for assistance from the bigger Mackinaw.

The Mackinaw will return and the disabled cutter will be repaired. Channels will again be broken and shipping will be started—not on schedule but much earlier than would have been possible without the assistance of the Coast Guard.

The Coast Guard was organized as early as 1790 by an act of Congress under the name Revenue Marine. In its long lifetime it has ably demonstrated its right to its Latin motto, Semper Paratus—Always Prepared—to serve the nation well in war and in peace.

Railroads Condemned To Bankruptcy

A Senate Committee has been considering a bill to remove the long lag which now exists between heavy operating cost increases to the railroads and the granting of increased rates. The spokesman for a major railroad recently cited the record of the past six years as evidence of the need for a change. He said that hundreds of millions of dollars which should have gone into mobilizing the strength of the rails had been lost irrevocably by needless and protracted delays in rate adjustments which are caused by outmoded laws.

Then he observed, "If government regulation means that the railroads are to be deprived of the opportunity and the right to employ the methods which all other industries find necessary to meet inflation, then the present type of government regulation means condemnation of this regulated industry to ultimate bankruptcy. . . . The world's best railroad transportation helped immeasurably in making America the world's greatest country, and railroads will continue to contribute to future progress if given regulation that will enable them to obtain prompt recognition of present-day conditions."

The railroads' position in rate-making procedures is an impossible one. Expenses soar by the tens of millions, due to higher wages, taxes, and material costs. Yet, when an application for rate adjustments is made, month after month goes by before any relief is granted. In the meantime, the rails must operate at a lower and lower rate of return—and there isn't a thing they can do about it. The railroads' net return on their investment has been far lower than that of any other major industry.

The only solution is a change in the law which will bring regulatory and rate-making policies and procedures into accordance with the economic facts of life today.

Inevitable Progress By Free Enterprise

UNTIL it's put to work, a lump of coal produced today seems exactly the same as one blasted out of the ground long ago. But a ton of coal burned in an up-to-date plant can now produce up to 40 per cent more power than was possible a relatively short time back. In a competitive economy, efficiency is the key to success and the producer who fails to advance his methods, reduce his costs, and produce a better product cannot survive. The coal industry, composed of some 5,000 competing companies, is no exception to this rule.

The industry's central research organization is constantly involved in projects covering all aspects of coal mining and utilization. Special plants are in operation which clean and size the coal. Coal is actually tailored to fit the special needs of many different kinds of customers, ranging from the household user to huge industrial plants. Work is going forward on a revolutionary new coal-burning gas turbine locomotive and vastly more efficient smokeless stoves and furnaces. Real progress is being made with continuous mining machinery which makes possible cheaper and faster production.

With 95 per cent of its reserves still in the ground, enough to last 1600 years at current production rates, the coal industry is a long range establishment. It will always be a progressive force in our economy, so long as we preserve its free, competitive character.

Tax Bureau Reforms Should Be Helpful

A big step has been taken toward cleaning out corruption in the Internal Revenue Bureau, and the country can feel good about it.

The plan, now in effect after recent Senate approval, is designed to eliminate the evils of political patronage from the bureau.

The 64 collectors of internal revenue, appointed by the political party in power, now go under Civil Service. That puts all 57,000 persons in the bureau under Civil Service, with the single exception of the commissioner. He remains a presidential appointee.

As one senator put it, this should place the bureau out of reach of "the boys in the back room." Senator Monroney, a champion of the plan, said it "takes out the last big island of political influence left in the government."

Heretofore, appointments of the 64 collectors have theoretically been strictly political plums. Actually, there were a lot of lemons.

Of the 64 collectors who served during the last year or so, 17 were chosen from and served under Civil Service. None of them has been sucked into the current wave of scandals in the bureau. Of the remaining 47 political appointees, eight were either fired or forced to resign.

Under the new plan, the collectors are replaced by not more than 25 district commissioners and 70 deputy district commissioners. There will be at least one deputy to each state.

The top man, the commissioner in Washington, will have three assistants. One will be an inspector charged with the job of spotting and wiping out any corruption before it can do the great damage it has in recent months.

A second assistant will be the man through whom the 25 district commissioners report direct to the head of the bureau in Washington. A third assistant will be head man for the paper work.

Salaries of the top 99 men in the rejuvenated bureau will range from $12,000 to $14,800. Not enough to get rich on. Not so little that a man will be tempted to take money from the outside to get along.

Taxes, themselves, are high. It's hard to get them paid. But the tax collecting business in general is looking up. We can feel good about it.

An Ohio woman identified a robber who snatched her husband's pay envelope. Now she probably has it.

A Tennessee man found $10 in a Bible that hadn't been out of the bookstore for years. Religion pays even if you use it more often.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Senatorial colleagues figure there is more than meets the eye behind the $10,000 transaction between Senator Brewster of Maine and Henry Grunewald, undercover lobbyist, wire-tap expert, and tax fixer.

The senator from Maine appeared briefly before the King subcommittee last week and testified he had paid Grunewald $10,000 in order to cover up two $5,000 contributions given to the primary campaigns of Senators Nixon of California and Young of North Dakota. Grunewald, Brewster claimed, had served as the conduit to pass the money on to their campaigns.

However, Senators Nixon and Young knew nothing about the deal and were sore as blazes when Brewster sprang his out-of-the-blue testimony.

It would be a matter of mere routine investigation for the King tax-fraud committee to have delved deeper into the strange relations between the senator from Maine and Washington's most unusual tax-fixing lobbyist. Nevertheless, Brewster was asked few questions by the King committee.

He was not asked why he had saved Grunewald from a contempt citation by the Senate; or why he had used Grunewald in a wire-tapping deal; or whether he, as chairman of the Republican committee on senatorial elections made it a practice to ignore the rules of his party and contribute to one Republican's nomination as against another Republican.

Furthermore, Brewster will be asked none of these questions later. It's against the rules of the club. Members of Congress just don't embarrass each other.

Other witnesses can be grilled, day after day. They can be insulted and badgered on the witness stand. They can be thrown in to jail if they refuse to answer questions.

But the unwritten law of Congress is that you don't ask embarrassing questions of a fellow member of Congress. The King committee has done an excellent job on other matters, but it won't violate this rule.

STRANGE FRIENDSHIP

However, since the public is entitled to know all the facts regarding the men who write the laws which the public has to follow, it is altogether fair to point to some highly significant facts in the relationship between Senator Brewster and mysterious Henry Grunewald which the King committee passed over.

Grunewald, who has refused to name the source of about a quarter of a million dollars, was such a familiar person around Brewster's office that Brewster and staff called him "Henry." He was also on familiar terms with Pan American Airways, for whom he admits "checking" telephone wires.

Brewster also happens to be close to the giant Pan American Airways combine—in fact, has done so many favors for them that he is sometimes called "the senator for Pan American."

In 1946-47, Brewster was pushing his "chosen instrument" bill to abolish competition between different U. S. airlines overseas, putting all of them in the hands of one company instead. Pan American wanted this bill passed, was lobbying vigorously for it, figured Pan Am would be the "chosen instrument" to handle all U. S. air traffic overseas.

But Trans-World Airlines, headed by Howard Hughes, was opposed. Hughes figured that under the Brewster bill TWA would be amalgamated with Pan American. He favored free American competition.

Brewster, whose business was to legislate not negotiate private business deals, made an amazing approach to Hughes, asked him to sell out to Pan American. Hughes refused.

STRANGE INVESTIGATION

But Brewster was also chairman—in 1947—of the powerful Senate Investigating Committee, formerly under Sen. Harry Truman. And with the Republicans controlling Congress in 1947, Brewster began a probe of Howard Hughes. Many people felt that it had all the earmarks of a blackmail probe to force Hughes to do business with Pan American Airways.

At about this time, Brewster also stooped to the un-American act of having the Washington police tap the telephone wires of Howard Hughes and his attorneys at a Washington hotel.

Most of this came out during the wire-tap investigation by the Senate District of Columbia committee in the summer of 1950. This was where Grunewald was voted a contempt citation for refusing to answer questions, and where Brewster saved him from going to jail.

10 YEARS AGO

New Delhi, India—Japan reached out for India by sea, occupying the Andaman Islands in the Bay of Bengal, barely 500 miles from the United Nations' Ceylon-to-Calcutta supply route, in an attempt to set the stage for a drive against the mainland.

Washington, D. C.—Striking powerfully at the Japanese supply lines into the Southwest Pacific, an American task force raiding with 1,000 miles of Yokohama, virtually wiped out enemy installations on Marcus and Wake Islands.

We're Under-Estimating Russia, Insists U. S. Military Analyst

By RAMSAY D. POTTS, Jr.
Condensed from Air Force Magazine

(Distributed by NEA Service)
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—We of the Western democracies, seem to have a habit of thinking of Soviet Russia as a semi-barbaric country full of louts in baggy pants who somehow manage to win military victories by overwhelming an enemy with masses of troops.

This was sharply brought home to me by a man who had spent several years of the post-World War II period in making analyses of military problems.

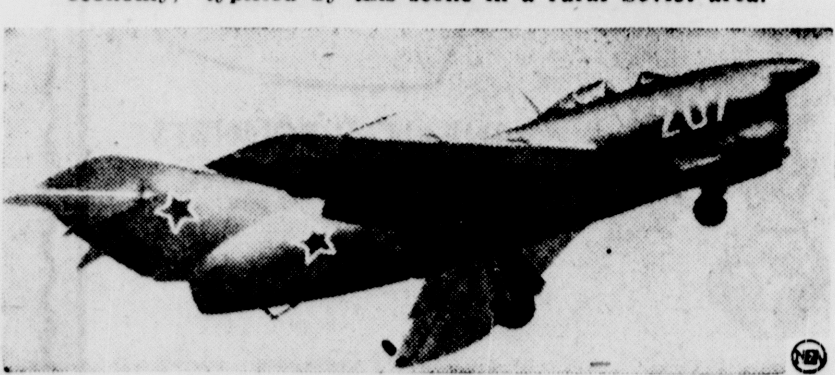

He said that even after he and his associates pieced together a picture of Soviet strength in certain fields of armament, he nevertheless tended subconsciously to reject his own conclusions.

"The picture that always comes to my mind when I think of Soviet Russia," he said, "is of a woman plowing a field behind an animal-drawn plow. I am trying to erase that mental image, and replace it with one of the MIG-15 pulling away from the F-86 at 40,000 feet."

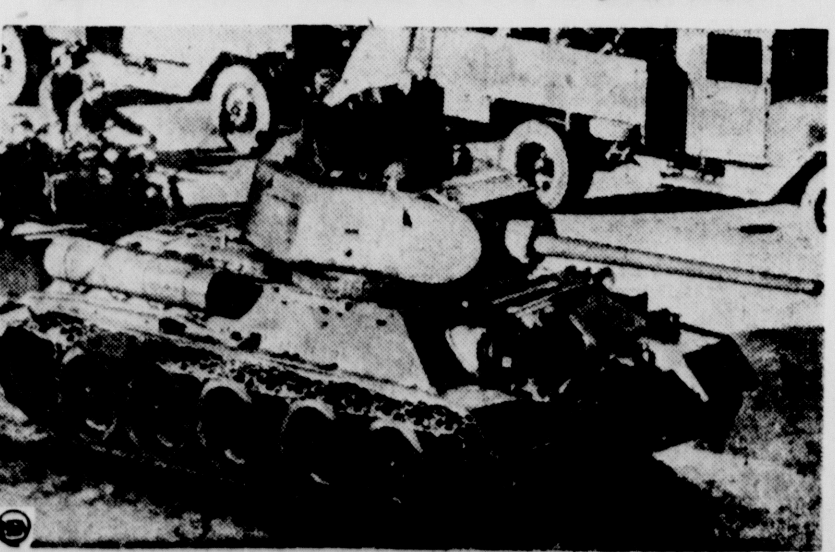

The Russians have depressed their civilian standard of living to a minimum subsistence level in order to concentrate upon investment in capital goods, machine tools and armaments.

HOW MOST AMERICANS think of Russia is in terms of an "oxcart economy," typified by this scene in a rural Soviet area.

WHAT AMERICANS SEEM TO FORGET is the Russian MIG-15 (above) "pulling away from the U.S. F-86 at 40,000 feet," or the quantity of Russian tanks like the T-34 (on parade below).

By dint of this and by borrowing and stealing designs from German, British, American, Swiss and other sources, the Russians have been able, by concentrating on the armaments segment of the technological front, to achieve performance that matches the best in the U. S.

The most striking illustration of this is the quantity production of the MIG-15, but other examples can be noted in the quality and quantity of Russian tanks, artillery pieces, rockets and radar.

In connection with the MIG, it should be pointed out that the Russians recently captured an American jet fighter equipped with our prized gunsight.

The sight is the one item of equipment on our fighters in Korea which is markedly superior to the Russian. It is one of the two main reasons why we have been able to hold the upper hand in air combat.

As a result of the plane's capture more than six months ago, we may expect to find before too long that Communist pilots will be shooting with far greater accuracy than they have done so far in Korea.

Finally, an area in which we badly underestimated the Russians was in the amount of atomic information we credited them with having at their disposal.

When the Russians were told that the U. S. had solved the problem of making atomic bombs, Stalin was able to receive the news with the utmost composure. For the great secret was no secret to him.

The Russian espionage organization functioned throughout the war with remarkable success, especially in the field of atomic energy. The cases of Allen Nunn May and Klaus Fuchs are familiar to all of us.

Through these and other spies the Russians were able to obtain the most complete information about our vital processes and production techniques for making atomic weapons.

In addition Soviet Russia has an atomic energy organization that compares favorably in size and scope with our own.

Fortune Magazine said last September that, "production of engineering graduates (in the United States) is tapering off from 25,000 in 1952 to a possible low of 12,000 in 1954."

In the same connection, Fortune said, "Russia is estimated to be training young scientists and technicians at the rate of about 100,000 a year."

This recalls the statement made by Irving Langmuir in "One World or None," following his return in 1945 from the USSR Academy of Science:

"They (the Russians) have planned a far more extensive program of science than is contemplated by any other nation."

The many lessons we learned from experience in war against Germany should have furnished valuable guides to those of our national leaders who since 1946 have been trying to estimate Russian capabilities. Instead, there were men who interpreted the lessons so that as a country we rolled along, right up until Korea, on the premise that Russia was an "oxcart" economy, incapable of producing the complicated paraphernalia of modern war.

Of the estimates that have had to be made, the most important of all is the estimate of Russia's capability to manufacture atomic weapons and deliver them on targets in this country. And in this critical area were made some of the most grievous miscalculations.

In a statement released to the press on October 30, 1947, Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, head of the wartime Manhattan Project, was reported as saying that the Russians would need 15-20 years to develop the atomic bomb if they did it in secrecy and without aid from the United States, Britain, or Switzerland.

The information that the U. S. has been able to obtain about technical activity behind the Iron Curtain is extremely sketchy. Nevertheless, in making our estimates of Soviet Russia we have tried to draw a complete and rounded picture from this scanty information.

When, however, there is little information, it is dangerous to rely only upon proven facts to the exclusion of developing general theories on a deductive basis. This was one of our mistakes.

We seem to have reasoned from meager information to a general premise that would fit a preconceived notion of Russia as industrially backward.

Military dogs were used by all combatants in World War I except the United States.

Good Evening . . .

CONSERVATION WEEK—The number of special weeks calling for special observance in the United States is greater than the number of weeks in the year.

Most of the special weeks—such as Pipe Smoker's Week and Butterscotch Pie Week—appeal only to a limited group of people. Others have general and widely-merited approval.

"Join a Conservation Club Week" in Michigan is in the latter group. It deserves and has received the support of many people who, while they may not belong to a conservation club, wholeheartedly espouse the conservation cause.

PUBLIC OPINION—James A. O. Crowe, Associated Press outdoor writer, commenting on Conservation Week, points out that if you want to make your voice heard in conservation matters you had best join a conservation club.

"Conservation clubs throughout the nation have become the bulwark of strength of those who eringe to see any natural resource wasted," Crowe writes.

On a national scale, for instance, conservation clubs are in an all-out fight to save the nearly extinct Key deer of the Florida Keys. A miniature version of Michigan's white-tails, only 30 of the animals are left. Another club is battling to save California's huge redwood trees.

IN MICHIGAN—In Michigan the Conservation Clubs have in the majority banded together to back progressive conservation.

Michigan United Conservation Clubs have fought for years to give the Conservation Commission discretionary power over deer hunting so the herd can be better balanced with available food; and it has been always vigilant to thwart any attempt by politicians to "take over" the Conservation Department.

The organized conservationists are listened to both by the Conservation Department and the Michigan Legislature.

So if you want to make your voice heard, join a conservation club and add your voice to the thousands of members already pleading for good conservation practices.

HISTORY OF WASTE—North America is a land of plenty and for centuries was also a land whose people never practiced the old adage: Waste not, want not.

They cut down the forests, killed off the billions of plump passenger pigeons, depleted the herds of buffalo to near-extinction, and let natural gas worth millions of dollars flare in lighted torches until the supply burned itself out.

Michigan was in the forefront in the period of waste, not because the lumbermen were wasteful but because the nation wanted lumber—fast. The people subscribed to no code of conservation ethics.

Forest fires raged unchecked. People believed the timber stands would never be exhausted. Cleared land represented progress, not waste.

THE WIDER FIELD—Conservation began in measures to protect bird life, spread to include game and fish, and now encompasses the land and even the air.

In the evolution of thought conservation has become a practice in living rather than a means to an end.

It is now recognized by a majority of our people that without conservation of natural resources man will be unable to exist happily and prosperously.

Anti-smoke laws preserve the purity of the air we breathe; pollution control maintains the purity of public waters; soil conservation sustains the fertility of our soil; and game laws protect our native animals and birds.

Conservation becomes most meaningful when the full scope of its application is understood.

The Doctor Says . . . Society for Crippled Children Aids Thousands Every Year

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

Each year, thousands of people buy Easter Seals to support the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults. But few of the generous citizens who each year for the past thirty years have helped to support this voluntary organization really know how their dollars are used.

The Society gives direct service to 228,000 crippled children and adults each year. Facilities and services for the handicapped operate in all 48 states, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

Nearly 2,000 professional workers are employed to give service to the handicapped, including both children and grownups. One hundred and fourteen outpatient treatment training centers are now maintained for cerebral palsied and crippled children.

There are fifty-eight evaluation and diagnostic clinics and twenty-five speech centers are maintained. The National Society maintains in whole or in part eighty-one camps for crippled children in thirty-three states. One hundred and fifty-eight public school systems receive assistance and special education for crippled children. This is by no means all. The National Society for Crippled Children and Adults aids in employment and placement services, an activity which is enabling many handicapped persons to find happy and remunerative positions in society. Rehabilitation centers, physical therapy facilities, and many other services which aid the handicapped to become well enough to help themselves are encouraged and supported.

PROMOTES RESEARCH

But your Easter Seal dollar is not devoted alone to the care of children and adults who are already handicapped. In common with the objectives of medicine as a whole, the National Society encourages and helps to support research into the causes and prevention of crippling conditions, a program which it is hoped will eventually lead to a small number of handicapped people. This is the aim, of course; until it can be fully realized we shall have to help in every way possible all those who are handicapped.

For those who are locally-minded, it may be mentioned that ninety cents of every dollar is retained in the state in which the money is raised.

Where else in the world can one find such a generous outpouring for less fortunate members of society?

The address of the National Society is 11 South LaSalle Street, Chicago 3, Illinois.

What In The World?

By L. EARLE DAVIDSON

VIENNA, Austria—This is the most intriguing, the most wonderful, and the most beautiful city we have visited on our tour thus far. Here the ideologies of the east and west meet. Here are the most beautiful old buildings in all of Europe. Here is a graciousness unparalleled in the old world. We are staying at the Hotel Bristol, an American Army controlled ostelry in the heart of downtown Vienna. Across the street and down in the next block to our left is the Soviet controlled hotel. Because the Russians are therefore what might be termed our "un-neighborly neighbors," we see many of them on the streets near our hotel. Their green-gray uniforms look almost new. They must have them cleaned and pressed every day.

The Russians swagger down the street as if they knew they were in parade for western eyes. Only when you see two or more of them together is there ever a trace of a smile on their faces. Then they act almost human. But, when alone, they strut through the crowds with unseeing eyes and cold, expressionless faces. They are not permitted to fraternize with anyone, so they act as though they were afraid to stop walking for fear someone might venture to engage them in conversation.

Some of the folks who work at the American embassy tell me that, officially, they get along very well with the Soviets. They say the Russians are very polite and courteous, but eternally correct.

This is the only place in the world where daily contact with the Soviets is carried on by American, British and French officials. The one of this relationship, our officials tell us, often is used as a gauge in determining the seriousness of events elsewhere.

Like Berlin, the city of Vienna is divided into four zones. However, administration of affairs here is carried on cooperatively by the four powers—America, France, Britain, and Russia. The command changes each month, so that top-level authority is vested in only one country at a time. Right now the French are in control, and everywhere one sees French soldiers patrolling the city.

In addition, each of the four zones has what might be termed a squad car, in which together ride a soldier from each of the four nations. The car is a jeep and the soldiers are military policemen. Reason for this, we are told, is to eliminate any friction in the matter of arresting soldiers who may get out of hand in any of the zones. When there is a disturbance in which a soldier from any of the four armies is involved, the jeep for that particular zone is called to the scene. Then the military policeman who has jurisdiction over the particular soldier involved in the trouble takes over. The others stay out of it, unless their assistance is requested.

Not long ago the Russian zone jeep was called to quiet a disturbance in which several Soviet soldiers were involved. They had been drinking heavily. Arriving at the scene, the Russian M. P. tried to arrest the soldiers and came near getting beat up himself, merely because he refused to ask for help from the M. P.'s from the other countries who had been riding with him.

Although Vienna has thousands of spies, and you have a feeling that everything you say is being overheard by someone, there is a friendliness among the Viennese themselves which captivates you. They are particularly friendly to Americans and try to be helpful in every way they can.

Actually Vienna is a tourist paradise. There is so much to see, so many wonderful places to eat, and prices are so low.

Though many of the shops downtown are as modern as any you can find on Fifth Avenue in New York, the hotels and restaurants for the most part are a century or more old and are gorgeous throwbacks to an era when Vienna led the world in culture, music and art.

I've never liked antiques. But Vienna would be meaningless without them. They belong here. These beautiful old buildings provide a perfect setting for the medieval furniture, rugs and draperies with which they have been equipped for years without number.

In the restaurants the musicians play Mozart, Brahms and Beethoven with almost reverent feeling. Dancing is reserved for the night clubs, where more American music is heard than anywhere else. At the Moulin Rouge the other evening I heard such numbers as "For Me and My Gal," "My Blue Heaven," "It Had to be You," "Blue Skies," "Rag Mopp," and of course "Third Man Theme." The singing was in German. In fact, during the floor show, a tall, good looking fellow sang "Mule Train" in German with all the gestures of Vaughn Monroe, who popularized the number back home.

Speaking of "The Third Man Theme," some of us went down to the Cafe Mozart for a snack last night. The Cafe Mozart, you may remember, was the locale for the beginning of the picture, "The Third Man." Of course Joseph Cotten and Valli were not there, but along the dimly lighted streets on the way home we thought we saw the sinister figure of Orson Welles turning every corner ahead of us.

The cafe is located in the neighborhood where Mozart lived and worked. There is a beautiful statue of the great composer in front of the place.

As we walked back to our hotel, we remarked about how peaceful and gracious the Viennese people seemed. And how they talked very little about the possibility of war.

Then, as we turned into the Ringstrasse near our hotel, the spectre of Soviet pressure returned to us. For high atop the Russian controlled hotel down the street was a spotlighted Soviet flag. It is the only flag in the world, they tell us, that is never taken down at night.

Ruark Bemoans Today's Music

By ROBERT C. RUARK
NEW YORK—While I am a fellow with music in his bones (which also react to gaudy and whether) I have just bashed in the radio with my Scout ax, because I do not think that I can live through very much more of this maudlin mood music that torments us these days.

It may be direct result of the last tax hike, but we have come down with a hard case of the musical sobbs recently, and it is getting to the point that you cannot switch on the hit parade without drowning in a freshet of tears. One is racked with sobs as he goes about his humble chores, in sympathy to whatever bird-brain is rendering one of the loser's-weepers ditties of the day.

There is an affliction upon us, momentarily, in the form of a singer called Johnny Ray, which makes you yearn for the dear old days of the Sinatra swoon. Mr. Ray suffers from some sort of vocal epilepsy that attacks him violently when he sings, so that he is forced to rend his garments, moan piteously and rub ashes in his hair. He is the new darling of the bobby-soxers, and looks to make a million unless he shakes himself to pieces during a rendition of "Cry."

Rash of Hillbilly Stuff
The tastes of the music lover are passing curious, and generally react directly to the influence of sun spots and the monsoon season. You will get a rash of hillbilly schmaltz, say, so that all you can hear is Patti Page and "Tennessee Waltz," and the thousand imitations of same, and then suddenly the mood blackens. Even the little white clouds no larger than a man's hand are sweating tears today, and the suspicion is that the whole nation is snugly tucked in for at least another six months of unrequited grief.

For the past few seasons we have been decidedly folk-songish in our popular tastes, which is to say pretty lugubrious. Our brand of folk music, whether or not it is confected in Manhattan, tends, to the old doleful lament formula, which fattens on tragedy, personal or public.

Evidently it took some powerful disaster, such as Grandma throwing out her hip, to drench a ditty out of the ancestor with the gear. My boyhood set thrived on the "Wreck of the Old Ninety-Seven" and "The Sinking of the Titanic," and I even recall a small vogue for the "Letter Edged in Black" on the old wind box.

Dreadful Music
The busted heart has always enjoyed a pretty steady play as the basis for versifying, but I swear I don't recall a comparable period of downright dolor. In passing through several eras—the early Gene Austin, the Nick Lucas, the Bing Crosby and Sinatra—Comomo-Billy Daniels epochs—considerable capital was made of grief, but not in such job lots, to such dreadful music. The next time you hear a decent tune on the air the chances are it was written in the 1930's, or had you noticed?

It is not so much that you mind the epidemic of sudden-kerchief coloraturas as that you live in deadly fear of the reaction. I know what the reaction will be. As soon as they've milked the last moisture out of "I Won't Cry Any More" the pendulum will slap back and we will be in for a siege of those horrible cheerful songs.

These are the songs with "Days" and "Sun" and "Early Morn" and "Get Out of Bed with a Smile" in them. The average mood is that life is a lovely thing indeed, if you will just arise at 6 a. m., fling back the covers, reach for your teeth, and smile, stupid, smile if it kills you. As a man who has not smiled before 4 p. m. in 20 years, I find these spurious cheer songs more offensive than the sordid little numbers that suggest suicide as an antidote to the way things are.

Anyone reading these lines would assume that here is a surly, disgruntled fellow who is impossible to please, and they would be nearly right. The displeasure also includes the half-suffocated moans of the sexy singers who appear to be stuck in the fence; the handclap songs sans melody, and all the quaver-throated tenors with the careful hairdos. Deal us out a little simple June, Moon, Croon, with a tune we can whistle, and never mind the paled accompaniment. Baby here can do all the shaking that has to be done around this house without any help from Johnny Ray.

DPs Trapped By Reds In Communist Area

HONG KONG—(AP)—An International Relief Organization official estimates there are more than 5,000 displaced persons still trapped in Communist Shanghai because nobody wants them. Most of them are White Russians, according to IRO Special Envoy Thomas Jamieson.

The problem is to find countries economically capable of absorbing them, he said. Australia, Canada and the United States have taken in 640,000 displaced persons in the past few years while the United Kingdom took 80,000.

Use Proper Pruning Surgery For Shapely, Healthy Trees

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

One of the most important spring garden tools—along with the spading fork and rake—is a sharp pair of pruning shears.

Actually, the pruning of trees and shrubs is almost a year-round occupation, for certain species respond better at certain seasons. Some even die of injuries incurred by bad timing in necessary surgery. By and large, however, spring—while the plants are still dormant—is prescribed as the best pruning time.

Most bushes and shrubs and trees benefit from pruning if the pruner knows what he is about. One purpose of the operation is to remove dead and injured branches, leaving a clean-cut smooth-surfaced wound with clean edges which can heal quickly.

Protect Tree Wound

The wound—if larger than a couple of inches across—should be protected so that decayed organisms cannot get in. Such a wound should be painted with an antiseptic solution and covered with a compound of resin, beef tallow and alcohol, or a commercially prepared solution.

In cutting off larger limbs of trees, don't try to do the job simply by sawing through at a point close to the trunk. Its weight is likely to rip it off and make a big, ragged wound on the trunk. Instead, do it the hard way with three separate cuts. The first should be cut from BELOW, well away from the trunk and cut about half-way through the limb. The second, from the top and an inch or so beyond the first cut. This cut goes through to take off the branch cleanly and without injuring the trunk. Finally, cut off the remaining short stump by sawing flush with the trunk, trimming the bark to points at top and bottom to aid the flow of sap.

Pruning Stimulates Production

Other purposes pruning serves is to stimulate the production of either flowers or foliage, and to improve the form of the plant. It cannot change the natural habit of a particular plant, but it can keep it from getting out of bounds. Few plants should be clipped, like a hedge or a poodle. In pruning, it is important to study the particular plant's habit, including the time when its flower buds are formed. Try to cut away old wood which is neither productive nor useful, usually from the base of the plant.

A rule of thumb—and there are exceptions to all rules—is that early-flowering shrubs form their buds on last year's growth, and therefore should be pruned a couple of weeks after flowering. Forsythia is a good example of this class of shrubs. Most shrubs which bloom in the late spring or thereafter form their buds on the current year's growth. For these, pruning activity should be undertaken in March and April.

All evergreens, including the broadleaved ones, are better pruned a few weeks before they go into spring growth. A few trees, including the maple, should be pruned when they are in leaf. They "bleed" if pruned in spring, when their sap is rising.

In cutting branches and twigs to train trees to a desired shape and to remove woody sections which grow inward or rub other branches, cut about a quarter of an inch above a bud which points in the desired direction. Using a sharp instrument—sometimes a knife is better than shears—make the cut slightly slanting, its high side above the bud. Don't make the cut slant too much, or too high above the bud or too close to the bud. Any of these are bad for the branch.

Regardless of the season, cut

The Singapore and Malayan governments ordered the cut to conserve dollars and other hard currencies now being expended on watch imports.

Mock War Uses Atom Weapons

By WILBUR MARTIN

FORT HOOD, Tex. — (AP) — A mushrooming cloud of smoke, billowing lazily upward in a blue sky signaled the use of simulated atomic weapons in a mock war that is coldly realistic.

An hour and a half after a brigade of 82nd Airborne "aggressor" troops parachuted from giant transport planes yesterday, the atomic cloud burst over the drop zone.

The Army communique—No. 2 of Operation Long Horn, biggest allround maneuver in U. S. military history—stated briefly without detail: "The U. S. ground forces delivered an atomic attack against the aggressor ground forces." There were no U. S. planes in the air—aggressor aircraft controlled the sky.

One paratrooper was killed in the drop, which was last night officially announced as a brigade in size—2,310 men. Thirty-four were injured, including Col. Stanley Larson, youthful commander of the 325 Airborne Infantry regiment. He suffered a broken hip. Seven jumpers received fractured legs and one a fractured back.

Cpl. Andrew S. Mann, brother of Mrs. Alartie Elizabeth Russell of Route 3, Lakewood, N. J., was killed when his main chute failed to open. He was still frantically trying to open his reserve chute when he hit the ground after a thousand foot drop. His brother Bernard, in the same regiment, made the jump unhurt.

Government Eases Controls On Tires

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The government today lifted its ban on white sidewall tires and increased the amount of natural rubber that may be used in passenger car tires.

The National Production Authority also announced that tire and rubber companies may use 11,000 long tons of natural rubber in each quarter after April 1, instead of 105,000 tons.

The announcement was coupled with a promise of further easing of rubber controls "in the near future."

Taft Can't Get Off New Jersey Ballot

TRENTON, N. J. — (AP)—State Superior Court today ruled that Sen. Taft's name will remain in the New Jersey April 15 Presidential preference primary.

Judge Ralph J. Smalley dismissed a state suit seeking removal of Taft's name after Attorney General Theodore D. Parsons told the court there was "an overriding public interest" not to remove.

Taft announced last week that he was withdrawing from the New Jersey primary election campaign and later wrote a letter to the Secretary of State formally requesting that his name be taken off the preferential ballot.

Hazards Found In Hotel Blaze

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — With the disclosure that several safety regulations had been ignored, two separate investigations have been ordered into a fire at the St. George Hotel that caused seven deaths.

Fire Chief John Alderson said after inspecting the brick building yesterday that a door at the bottom of the rear stairs was bolted and nailed. There was a rotten fire hose on the second floor and a drop ladder on a fire escape had been wired, making it unusable, he said.

Alderson said that although several fire safety rules were violated, there was no evidence the violations contributed to the death toll, worst in 20 years here for a hotel fire. Damage to the building was not extensive.

The fire began before dawn yesterday in a third floor room of the six-story structure and raced up a rear stairway to the upper stories. Five men died of suffocation. A sixth fell to his death after climbing through a window and a seventh died later of burns.

Ten of the estimated 150 guests in the 100-room hotel near downtown Skid Row were injured. The rest fled to safety through smoke-filled corridors or were rescued by firemen.

Wall Street

By RADER WINGET
NEW YORK — (AP) — A recovery movement today pulled the Stock Market out of a moderate slump and left it holding steady.

Prices spread out over a fractional range with very few straying outside the average limits.

Trading was at the same slow pace that has marked the two previous markets this week.

The market was down at the start with the railroads displaying the greatest sag. Trading was quiet.

By the time the second hour started there was evidence here and there of a price pickup. Every section of the market showed improvement, but the railroads still lagged behind the rest.

The steel deadlock over wages and prices resolved itself in Wall Street into a waiting game. Except for individual special situations, there was little inclination to venture.

Going lower today were Santa Fe, Atlantic Coast Line, Texas Co., Johns-Manville, consolidated Natural Gas, Du Pont, Armour, and Distillers Corp.—Seagrams.

Higher were New York Central, Northern Pacific, Kennecott Copper, American Cyanamid, Union Carbide, Westinghouse Electric, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Chrysler, Philco, and Douglas Aircraft.

The market yesterday was generally lower with the railroads among the hardest hit by a final hour selling spurt.

Ouster Of Judge Gillis Proposed

LANSING — (AP) — Two separate resolutions seeking the removal from the bench of Detroit Recorder's Judge Joseph A. Gillis were filed in the House today.

The resolutions gave the House the choice of two procedures. One asks Governor Williams to remove him from office. The other seeks impeachment of the judge and a subsequent trial by the Senate.

Rep. William S. Broomfield filed the removal resolution.

Gillis was arrested early Tuesday in Highland Park for drunk driving after a fight with another motorist.

The resolution would instruct the governor under a special clause in the state constitution to remove Gillis from office.

The provision permits the legislature by a two thirds vote to direct the governor to remove judges "for reasonable cause which shall not be sufficient ground for impeachment."

Gillis previously has been convicted of disorderly conduct in Lansing and in Oakland county.

The Broomfield resolution said that the public is demanding morality in government and that "judges should uphold the dignity of the courts."

New Spy Quiz Hinted As Grand Jury Calls Whittaker Chambers

NEW YORK — (AP) — A surprise federal grand jury appearance by Whittaker Chambers has set off reports of a new spy inquiry.

Chambers, one-time Communist courier and principal witness against Alger Hiss, was closeted with the jury for 80 minutes yesterday.

He wouldn't say afterwards what it was about except for "matters which were familiar to me."

Reports that a new espionage probe was underway could not be confirmed and U. S. Attorney Myles J. Lane would not comment.

Chambers testified at the Hiss trial that the former state department agent gave him departmental secrets for a prewar Soviet spy ring.

France Arrests Tunisian Rebels

TUNIS, Tunisia — (AP)—France cracked down with a heavy fist on Tunisia's independence-seeking nationalists today, arresting Premier Mohammed Chenik and three of his cabinet. Martial law and press censorship also were ordered.

The drastic steps were taken after the Tunisian government and the French protectorate's nominal ruler, the 70-year-old Bey of Tunis, had balked at what was described as a French ultimatum that Chenik must be fired.

The French action climaxed three months of nationalist rioting and sabotage in this North African trouble spot and World War II battleground. In the violence nearly 100 lives have been lost. Hundreds have been arrested and put behind barred wire.

Moslems in Tunis went on strike today in protest against the French action, which included a curfew from 9 p. m. to 5:30 a. m. and transfer of all police powers to the military.

Politicians To Wear Blue Shirts For TV

NEW YORK — (AP)—Delegates to the July political conventions may wear the blues—as well as sing them.

So predicts Sig Mickelson, director of news and public affairs for the Columbia Broadcasting system's television network.

He says, indeed, that they may become "the greatest blue-shirt conventions of all time."

That's because blue shows up well on television, and Mickelson expects the conclaves to have a potential video audience of 60 million persons. CBS and other TV networks have scheduled convention telecasts.

Southern Michigan Gets Sloppy Snow

(By The Associated Press)
An early spring snow plopped down on southern Michigan early today while sub-zero temperatures hit parts of the Upper Peninsula. The storm came and was gone within an hour, leaving as its principal effect slushy roads in the Jackson, Ann Arbor and Detroit areas. Roads elsewhere in the state were reported clear.

Low temperatures in the southern part of the state were only a few degrees below freezing. But Houghton recorded a mark of one below zero overnight, to set a low for the nation.

Returning Wounded Thrilled By First Sight Of U. S. Soil

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
FAIRFIELD - SUISUN AIR
BASE, Calif.—(NEA)—The corporal with the wounded shoulder gripped the sides of his litter as the big hospital plane circled for a landing after its long Pacific flight. He gripped them tight, until the blood drained out of his hands.
 "Well, I made it," he said. "All the way back. All the way back."
 This was the moment the wounded evacuees had waited for, the moment when their return became a reality. There below, bathed in bright sunlight, was California, America, home.
 The walking wounded glued their faces to the round windows. The litter cases stretched against casts, bandages and adhesive tape to get the smallest peek through the glass to the ground below.
 The corporal with the shoulder wound was in a top, center litter. No amount of stretching could give him a look at the ground. He pleaded with Sgt. Clarence Ball, a medical technician:
 "Tell me how it looks. Really. Are you sure it's there? Describe just a little bit of it to me."
 Ball grinned at him, took a look through the window and reported:
 "It's really there and it looks the same, which is darn good."
 "Say it just once more," the corporal asked. Ball obliged.
 For the first time during the nine-hour flight from Hawaii, even the worst psycho case abroad relaxed from his constant incoherent thrashing and no longer tugged at his heavy leather restraints. His trouble was too much combat, climaxed by an enemy shell bursting near him and completing the mental crack-up.
 Before takeoff the doctor had said that the lad wasn't aware of what was going on around him. But at that moment he somehow knew that he was home.
 Lt. Jack Keller of Decatur, Ill., who had gotten a smashed shoulder when knocked off the side of a Korean mountain by an enemy artillery shell, looked away after a long stare at the ground and held up his good arm. It was shaking very hard.
 "Crazy that the first look at the U.S. you've had for a long time should do that to you," he said.
 "I thought I'd be sore about the first look at the States because they've forgotten about the dead and wounded in Korea. But I've never seen anything so marvelous in all my life. I love it. It's wonderful. It's not Korea or any place else. It's America."
 A colonel who had been listening to Keller said:
 "Lieutenant, you can say that again for me, double."

WE MADE IT: That's the reaction of wounded evacuees from Korea when they first see America. This group of returning GIs landed at Fairfield-Suisun Air Force Base, Calif.

New Economy Budget Outlined In France; Fresh Taxes Barred

PARIS —(AP)— French Premier Antoine Pinay pushed an economic budget which levies no new taxes into the tax-conscious national assembly.
 Pinay proposed economies on almost all government spending except the four billion dollar arms program. The cuts would save 110 billion francs (320 million dollars). He estimated increasing yields from existing taxes would add about 60 billion francs (175 million dollars) to previous estimates of government income.
 These two factors, Pinay said, would balance the budget without new taxes.
 The cabinet approved the balanced record-high budget of 3,789 billion francs ($10,825,000,000) as well as a Pinay proposal to cancel billions of francs in virtually uncollectable back taxes. Heavy penalties are decreed for future tax evasions, which hitherto have been lightly punished.

 The budget goes first to the assembly's finance committee and may reach the floor of the assembly for approval this week.
Lives For Election
DALLAS, Tex.—(AP)—A Dallas doctor tells this story: An 80-year-old man was brought to the doctor's office recently suffering with a heart attack. "Doc," pleaded the aged voter, "just keep me alive until the November election."
 The ruby is often rated as the most valuable of all gem stones.

Taft's Hat Brings $550 At Auction; Eisenhower Kit $258

WASHINGTON — (AP)— Taft forces won a victory over Eisenhower backers in the Capital city—financially speaking, that is. Auctioneers got $550 for Taft's hat, while Eisenhower's K-ration kit brought in $258.

The bidding came at a fund-raising meeting sponsored by the Republican Women's Finance committee for the District of Columbia. Taft and Eisenhower are candidates for the GOP presidential nomination.

Nation-Wide TV May Soon Follow FCC Action And High Frequencies

SKYLINE OF THE FUTURE: Various UHF antenna are lined up on a rooftop for testing. These are the symbols of the new band that will bring television to sections that now don't have it.

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The wonders of television — puppets, wrestlers and all — will soon be available throughout the U. S. wherever there are people with a roof to stick an antenna on.

A choice selection of initials—FCC and UHF—are the keys that will put a TV set in living rooms from coast to coast. The Federal Communications Commission is about to lift its freeze, which has prevented any new stations from going on the air since 1948. And Ultra High Frequency, an entirely new radio band, is the medium over which most of the new stations will transmit.

UHF spells a good chance that many sections of the U. S., currently struggling along without TV, will have it by the end of 1953. For some, it may happen sooner, perhaps even this year.

And the non-TV slices of America are tremendous. There are thousands of square miles containing citizens who've never seen television. This unnatural condition was brought about by two main factors—the contrariness of television waves and the FCC's freeze.

Unlike some other kinds of radio waves, television waves don't bounce back from the ionosphere (which is a layer about 200 miles up). TV waves go right through this ionosphere, meaning that reception on the Moon is wonderful, but also meaning that a television signal has a very small range on Earth.

Thus, great parts of the U. S. are completely out of reach of the 109 stations now telecasting in 60 cities. And there are only 109 stations because of the FCC's action in banning new station construction.

The freeze was clamped on when the Commission began worrying that the VHF segment of the radio spectrum (Very High Frequency, which carries all existing TV) was getting overcrowded. There was danger that stations were too close and would begin interfering with each other.

In the three years of the Great Freeze, the FCC and private groups studied and experimented. And they decided to move up higher on the radio spectrum, to get more elbow room and more space for new stations. They're going up from the VHF range (30 to 300 megacycles) to the UHF range (300 to 1000 megacycles).

Actually, UHF has been set aside for television since 1944, but for a while it looked like it wouldn't be needed. The new medium grew so fast, however, that the Commission decided it had better act.

Already, it has divided UHF into 70 channels, as against only 12 existing VHF channels. It has assigned channels to cities from Millinocket, Me., to Ajo, Ariz. It confidently expects the nearly 4000 UHF stations—plus 450 new VHF stations—will some day blanket the nation.

There are channels assigned to towns and villages—there's even one listed for a county that has only 600 inhabitants. About the only places that won't be within range of Faye Emerson will be certain isolated mountainous regions in Nevada and Wyoming.

This great upheaval won't happen overnight. When the freeze is lifted, probably around the middle of March, there'll be a 60- or 90-day period for filing applications for the new channels. The FCC, at the moment, has some 400 VRF applications on hand, ones left over when the freeze was begun.

They may not act on these first. Some people in the industry think the Commission may try, at first, to bring television to places which don't have it. Others say they may initially license cities on the transcontinental coaxial cable. If the thaw comes in March, estimates are that the earliest a new station could go on the air would be September.

Another possible delaying factor is the steel shortage. Most of the applicants have already ordered equipment—like transmitters—which will be delivered when and if their licenses are granted. But the big transmitting aerials take great quantities of steel and, if new stations pop up like mushrooms, the shortage of steel may seriously curtail construction.

sive; converters now being tested could be easily installed and would cost somewhere around $25.

UHF would also require a new and different kind of home antenna. Companies like RCA, which has conducted extensive tests in Bridgeport, Conn., are still experimenting with roof-top antennas of different design. One of the best is shaped like a big bow-tie.

Those tests showed, too, that the UHF signal is strong and clear. It's a little more resistant to interference, such as auto ignition, than VHF. And color TV can be received on UHF, too.

All television officials, producers, actors, advertising agencies and even the puppets are excited about the FCC thaw. They see the future of television as rosy—even in black and white.

Gwinn spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Dani. Mr. and Mrs. Chris H. Gribble have returned home from Gladstone where they spent some time visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Ohman.

Car's Engine Is A Deep Secret To The Ladies!

HIGH-OCTANE RIDDLE is an automobile engine, which seems to puzzle the ladies. The ladies probably puzzle the engine, too.

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK (NEA)—If you know a woman who understands what makes an automobile run, you are acquainted with a rare character indeed. Husbands and other males will be delighted to learn that a nationwide survey shows most women haven't the foggiest idea how come cars move.

The extent of the average female's ignorance regarding things automotive is frightful. The survey took up many of the items under the hood and asked what each was designed to do.

These are the items, and some of the answers:

Engine as a whole. One Philadelphia lady gave the questioner a blank look and said, "Don't ask me about it—I barely know where it is." Another gal, this one from Dallas, said she thought the car moved by "centrifugal force." Total—47 per cent of the ladies had little knowledge about it.

Transmission. One brainy female said this was "where you put the key in." Another shrugged her shoulders and said, "All I do is drive the old crate." Total—50 per cent knew nothing of its function.

Distributor. An Atlanta woman said this had something to do with the windshield wiper. A well-informed Philadelphia girl said she didn't know her car had one. Total—72 per cent were in blissful ignorance.

Valves. A Massachusetts woman knew there were some valves on the tires, and a miss from Washington state knew they "let something in somewhere." From Pittsburgh came a reply: "All I know is my husband's always grinding them." Total—68 per cent of the ladies were hazy.

Crankshaft. This brought an indignant reply from a woman, who snorted, "I don't have to crank my car." And a St. Louis damsel described it as "an old-fashioned device found on the Model T." Total—64 per cent of the girls were not guilty of knowledge.

western woman said it "holds the grille in position." Total—more than 30 per cent were vague about it.

Of course, there are exceptions. In Hartford, Conn., the survey turned up an ex-WAC mechanic who was asked how a car ran. "Gas is mixed with air in the carburetor," she said, "and the gas-air mixture goes into the cylinders. When it fires it pushes the pistons down and they turn the crankshaft." Show-off.

Rock Lobster for Lenten Menus

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE ROCK LOBSTER in shell makes a satisfying Lenten treat for meatless meals.

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Spring appetites need a little coaxing. That's where frozen South African rock lobster tails come into the meatless menu picture. They are wonderfully good and very easy to prepare.

Cape of Good Hope Rock Lobster in Shell
(6-8 servings)
Five to 6 (8-ounce) South African can rock lobster tails, 3 tablespoons olive oil, 1 small clove garlic, peeled, 1/4 cup minced onion, 2 cans tomato paste, 1/2 cup water, 1 bay leaf, 1-8 teaspoon thyme, 1-8 teaspoon marjoram, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 drops Tabasco.

Boil rock lobster tails according to directions. Remove meat and reserve shells. Chill meat and dice. Heat olive oil, add garlic clove, cook 2 minutes and remove. Add minced onion, tomato paste, water and seasonings. Let simmer 10 minutes or more.

Add diced rock lobster to mixture, heat and re-fill shells. Serve remaining sauce separately. Boiled white rice or wild rice may be served with this.

Directions for Boiling: Place rock lobster tails, either thawed or frozen, into large kettle boiling salted water (1 teaspoon salt for each quart water.) When water boils, lower heat so water boils gently and begin counting time. Keep covered. Boil tails 1 minute longer than their individual weight in ounces. For instance, boil an 8-ounce tail 9 minutes. Add 2 minutes to all boiling times when tails are cooked frozen.

To remove meat easily from shell, drain off hot water, drench with cold water. Using scissors, cut lengthwise through center of membrane covering flesh and insert fingers under meat at open end and pull meat out.

Does Different Religious Backgrounds Matter In Marriage?

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

Our young people are being encouraged to believe that difference in religion, as differences in race, do not matter. And that is as it should be. But, when it comes to marrying a person of a different religious background, does it matter? That is what is puzzling the young girl who wrote as follows:

(Q) "I am a girl of 16 and very much in love with a fellow who is not of the same religion as I. My parents do not allow me to see him and want me to keep company only with boys of the same religion as ours. Do you think my parents are right and I am wrong? What should I do?"—C.G.

(A) You cannot say your parents are right or wrong in this matter. It concerns the way they feel about marriage to a person of another religion. And, according to their feelings, they are right and you are wrong.

You, on the other hand, may feel that religious differences do not matter if you love a person. Therefore, your parents' point of view seems wrong and unfair to you. And, under the conditions, you resent their restraints.

I can assure you, however, that a marriage to a person when there is strong family opposition as is true in your case, is almost certain to fail. You may think that relatives do not matter but they do.

Should you defy your parents, ignore their wishes, and marry this young man, you can be sure that they would never feel the same about you as they do now. And, you can be even more sure that they would never accept this young man as a welcome member of the family.

His family, on the other hand, must be considered too. Even if they have no feelings about the religion of their future daughter-in-law, you can be sure that they would bitterly resent your parents' attitude toward their son. This, in turn, would be reflected in their relationships with you.

Try to make your parents see that religious differences are not so important as they think. And, until you are old enough and experienced enough to realize how these problems can affect a marriage, you will be wise to abide by your parents' wishes and limit your friendships to boys whom your parents approve of.

If you have a personal problem, write Elizabeth Hurlock in care of this newspaper.

LUDINGTON BUY-LINES by Sue Donimus

A FRIEND of mine says, "No, I don't play bridge; I'm just a fugitive from a chin gang!" Whether it's over the bridge table or the back yard fence, all the girls are talking about what they're doing with nylon at the Penney Store. There's a new sheer nylon dress, for instance, in navy and white print with elbow length puffed sleeves and a patent belt. Nylon frocks are also finished up to look like butcher linen, or rayon, or seersucker with a sheen! $8.90 and $12.75 at Penney's.

Bet you'll have a smile on—When your frock's a nylon!

So you're expecting a little income tax reduction? While you're infatigating, Lauerman's have some new frocks that will make you look more like a queen than a lady-in-waiting! Their new maternity frocks are really gay deceivers! One smart number in navy blue crepe features a navy and white polka dot yolk set off with a bold red horizontal stripe. A two piece dress with a luggage colored skirt and beige top looks suitable! Another one-piece navy blue is trimmed with striking ribbed rayon in navy and white stripes at cuffs and neckline. Maternity frock prices are from $5.95 for pert cottons to $9.75 and $10.75 for dressy rayons. Treat yourself at Lauerman's—Escanaba's stork club!

"THIS car," said the salesman, "is a wonderful opportunity." "Yeah," said the buyer, "I can hear it knocking!" Believe me, girls, he wasn't at the Peterson and Jacobsen Auto Service! The Studebaker Champion and the Commander guarantee no knocking by the car or you! You'll like the special feature that makes Studebaker so easy to handle—makes parallel parking a cinch for even us girls! Smart new upholstery, sleek streamlining, a powerful engine that doesn't require premium gasolines! Peterson and Jacobsen Auto Service will be glad to show you how Studebaker entered the low price field but remained a high class car!

AN optimist is a man who thinks his wife can drive a 6 ft. car thru an 8 ft. garage doorway! Or thinks his wife can walk into Gartner's new store without wanting to buy one of their luscious new coats. Today I saw several full length fitted coats with marvelous lines and fabrics. One was of gleaming navy ottoman; the other a black gabardine. A red shorty flaunts huge black velvet cuffs, lined collar, and three velvet inserts at the back. Comes in beige, too. Poodle cloth, bold and subdued plaids and checks, lush pastels—all waiting to be discovered by the wise girls who will let Gartner's cover up for them!

SOMEONE says an infant prodigy is just a small child with highly imaginative parents. I don't claim mine to be prodigious—but my imagination goes wild every time I stop at the children's department at the Fair Store and see the new Cinderella dresses. I can just imagine how cute my girls would look in every one of those Easter egg colors and pig-tail styles. The sweet new organdies are designed for Easter parading. Sister frocks in many styles—including one with white dotted swiss top, and red and white checked gingham skirt. Prices $2.29 to $3.95 in 3 to 6x; $3.29 to $4.98 in sizes 7 to 14. They can never be more Fair than in Cinderella dresses!

BATHING beauty believes in keeping her powder dry! If you're planning to install a powder room at your house I suggest you visit Moersch and Degnan. They have all the plumbing ammunition you need to attack this problem. Now on view in their display room are the finest examples of powder room fixtures by such famous manufacturers as Crane, Kohler and American Standard. These fixtures may be had in the newest decorator shades as well as white. Remember that Moersch and Degnan are open Friday evenings, and they invite you to take a powder from home and stop in to see this new display.

If you want some of the best families to ask you to call again, just be a bill collector! If you want people to call on you again, be a collector of bone china cups and saucers! Popular hostesses delight in serving coffee from their prize collections of cups and saucers, and they will thrill to new patterns, shapes and color combinations in the shipment that has arrived at Gust Asplund's. Gold touched cups and saucers from the world famous Staffordshire craftsmen will grace your table or your cup collection. Prices begin as low as $1.00.

I take a very sober view of liquor when one sups—But the china down at Gust Asplund's has me "in my cups!"

I've thought up a slogan for a Northwoodsman—"Home is where the heart is!" If you're building a new home, you'll think husband's a deer when he decides to buy supplies from the Stephenson Lumber Company. Quality building materials plus smart, on-the-trigger service are what you get! And you won't need much doe—a buck goes a long way at Stephenson's!

Smoke From $500,000 Chemical Plant Fire Hangs Over Detroit

DETROIT — (AP)—Clouds of dense, acrid smoke blanketed a downtown area for hours Monday when fire destroyed a chemical warehouse with loss estimated at $500,000.

A fire started in a supply of medicated cotton on the first floor of the Lambert & Lowman Chemicals Inc. warehouse at Twelfth and Howard. Flames, spreading rapidly through highly combustible chemicals, sent cyanide fumes billowing out for blocks. Firemen were hampered until windows and other entrances could be knocked out to permit ventilation.

Some 22 fire companies, answering five alarms, battled nearly three hours to bring the flames under control. Loss to the stock was set at $400,000 and to the building $100,000.

Unpaid Taxes Hurt French Finances, Already Hard Hit By Gold Shortage

By CHARLES R. HARGROVE
NEA Special Correspondent
PARIS (NEA)—If the French government could make people pay their taxes, revenue would exceed expenditure. If they would turn over to it their holdings of gold and gold currencies there would be no trouble about paying off debts incurred abroad.

Against the less than 500 tons of gold that constitute the official national reserve, there are at least 2000, probably 3000 and possibly 4000 tons owned by French citizens.

What taxes citizens should pay—but don't—is the equivalent of at least one billion, probably two billion and possibly three billion dollars a year.

Within two months recently, two governments bit the dust because Parliament refused to step up taxes in order to make the 1952 budget balance. A third, now in office, pronounced its aim to collect existing taxes instead of raising tax rates. Estimates of tax evasion run from 20 to 50 per cent. The budget deficit would be more than covered if just 20 per cent could be collected.

But it probably can't be, for just the same reason as the two or three thousand tons of hoarded gold can't be gotten into the commodious, nearly-empty, all-steel vaults of the national bank.

One shrewd Parisian put it this way:

"Almost every citizen of France is convinced that the government is certain to lose or waste a good part of any gold or francs he may surrender to its keeping."

"Therefore he says to himself: 'The less surrendered, the better.'"

Seeing what has been happening to the national currency for almost 40 years past, it is only natural that the French citizen should hold onto his gold and evade his taxes.

The government, after trying in vain to extort his gold, finally made it legal for him to buy and sell and hold it. It has now begun to make it legal for him to evade his taxes in full because they have become exaggerated, inequitable and complicated to the point of confusion.

The fiscal system developed these three defects by reason of the French genius for dodging taxes and successive short-lived governments' need of getting in more money as quickly as possible by any and every means. So one tax was piled on top of another and rates of taxation constantly raised.

Income taxes, introduced into France less than 50 years ago and never a success, proved slower and slower to react to incessantly rising prices and harder and harder to collect as the rates were raised. Of all state revenue, they never produced more than 26 per cent and now they produce 23 per cent. Where they are paid in full it is by the salary-earners, who represent 60 per cent of all income declarations.

Business contributes only 20 per cent and agriculture a mere 1.3 per cent.

In 1950 just 80,000 farmers paid income tax on profits averaging less than $650, while the 640,000 businessmen liable to tax on industrial and commercial profits declared an average of less than $1500, the majority of them being taxed ex officio as having earned less than $1000. Of course the progress of inflation brought payment in francs of less and less purchasing value.

Disappointment over the yield of direct taxation made France rely more and more on indirect levies. Use taxes now contribute 61 per cent of the revenue, turnover taxes 38 per cent.

But there is evasion there also. These turnover taxes amount sometimes to 20 per cent of the cost of a product, and naturally they rise as prices and production rise. Thus the temptation is to make out bills for less than real values, the balance passing in cash. The estimated tax loss is hundreds of millions of dollars a year.

Another defect in indirect taxation is its multiplicity. For instance, 14 taxes fall on coffee on its way from the plantation to the consumer. Another, still more serious, is that the more rates are raised the more prices rise.

The taxpayer has another grievance. Only 64 per cent of all public revenue comes from national taxes. In addition, 26 per cent represents "parafiscal" charges such as social insurance, and 10 per cent local taxes. The Ministry of Finance estimates that "fiscal and parafiscal pressure" absorbed 38 per cent of the national income in 1951, against 28 per cent in U. S. A. and 40 per cent in Great Britain.

Parliament's recent revolt against higher taxation makes some sense. What is wanted is simplification of taxes, more equitable incidence, more moderate rates, and, last but not least, something like stability of the currency.

An authority on taxation suggested the other day in the most serious of Paris dailies that fiscal injustice may be today greater than in 1789, when fiscal injustice bred the Revolution. Like the franc the fiscal system is tottering.

Hearing Held On Disbarment

Disbarment proceedings against G. S. Johnson, Manistique attorney, initiated by the Michigan State Bar Association, were heard by three circuit judges at a special session of Schoolcraft County Circuit Court yesterday.

The three judges—Donald E. Holbrook, of Clare, Thomas Landers, of Ironwood, and Howard L. Campbell, of Cadillac—took the matter under advisement and will file their decision with the court here later.

George Baldwin, of Munising, appeared on behalf of the State Bar Association, and Johnson was represented by his son, Merrill N. Johnson.

At the conclusion of oral presentations by the two attorneys, Baldwin requested and was granted 10 days in which to file a more complete brief on the case. Permission to file a new brief covering any additional points raised in the revised bar association brief was extended to Johnson.

Disbarment proceedings against the Manistique attorney were initiated by the state bar following the close of litigation in the Nelson Johnson estate case last year, allegations being made that Atty. Johnson, as a member of the bar and administrator of the estate, had been guilty of unethical conduct.

The matter was referred by the bar association to the eleventh district grievance committee composed of five practicing attorneys. Following a hearing about a year ago, the grievance committee filed a finding of fact and a recommendation that Johnson be suspended from the practice of law for two years.

Joseph A. Moynihan, of Detroit, presiding circuit judge of Michigan, subsequently appointed the three circuit judges to conduct a hearing on an order to show cause issued to Johnson by Circuit Judge Herbert W. Runnels, of Sault Ste. Marie.

The hearing opened yesterday morning and was concluded at 4 in the afternoon.

City Footbridge Declared Unsafe

A footbridge across the Manistique River slips below the Manistique Pulp and Paper Company plant in a deteriorated and unsafe condition and should be either repaired or removed entirely, it was reported to the City Council Monday night by H. W. Heideman, city manager.

The city manager said that part of the railing was gone, rocks had been thrown out of the cribs, and other parts of the structure were damaged.

The bridge, used extensively as a "short cut" between east and west sides of the city, is definitely not safe now for pedestrian travel, Heideman said. Much of the damage to the footbridge, he indicated, had been done by vandals.

Because the east approach to the bridge crosses private property, council members recommended that the property owner be approached regarding a right-of-way across the site before any reconstruction is started on the footbridge.

A few years ago when the project of rebuilding or destroying the footbridge was under consideration, a petition signed by a large number of persons was presented to the city board requesting that the bridge be maintained.

The city telephone switchboard again was discussed, council members suggesting that Hugh Kennedy, manager here for the Michigan Associated Telephone Company, be invited to attend the next city board meeting.

A resolution formally closing the records of the city board of review was approved.

Unless a special session is convened, the meeting Monday night was the final one for the present council. The next regular meeting will not be held until after the biennial city election April 7.

Council Gets Master Plan

A master plan for the development of Central Park, received and approved by the City Recreation Commission several weeks ago, was presented to the City Council Monday night by T. H. Reque, recreation director, and Peter Berger, recreation board member.

While deferring formal approval of the plans until further study, council members assented to the immediate development of a softball field in the southwest corner of the park area, adjacent to Maple avenue and the high school football stadium.

The recreation board was instructed to obtain cost figures on topsoiling the softball area and fencing along Maple avenue from the stadium to East Elk street.

Funds for the improvement, it was indicated, will be included in the park fund of the 1952 city budget, to be adopted prior to May 1.

Grading and removal of rocks from the softball site were completed last year.

Boden Clinches Smear Tourney

August Bodens quartet just about clinched the title in the Holy Name smear tournament Monday evening when they walloped the then runners-up, Maurice Lierman's crew, 84-29.

Boden's 84 was high for the evening and it put them out in front of Barney DeHooghe's second-place team by a margin of 34 points, 699 to 665. In third is Albert Bratonia with 661.

The final round of play is to be held next Monday evening and while there is a mathematical chance for either DeHooghe or Bratonia to overtake the high flying leaders, the odds are greatly against it.

Boden's team won the first half play and made the prediction that they would take the second half and the title without a playoff. Apparently the Boden school of smear which includes a lengthy practice session Friday evenings pays dividends.

The windup banquet is to be held at All Saints parish hall on Sunday, April 20.

Other aggregate scores are Clyde Alwooden 642, Maurice Lierman 632, Ed LeRoux 620, Albert Wilmette 610, Andy Vargo 604, Ed Laidlaw 584, Rudy Sydmark 580, Wilfred Royer 578, Lou LaComb 576, Harvey Gardner 570, Paul Jarvis 569, Pete DeMenter 549, Julius Ruebens 532, Wilfred LeRoux 531, Roy LaCrosse 525, William Bouchard 511, Robert Schram 492, Don Zierke 481 and Rene Maskart 471.

Canada Can't Wait For Aid On Seaway

DETROIT—(AP)—Canada isn't bluffing in threatening to build the St. Lawrence Seaway alone, says her minister of transport, Lionel Chevrier.

Chevrier told the Detroit Economic Club Monday Canada still prefers to build the seaway jointly, "but we cannot wait forever" for the United States to make up its mind.

He said Canada has "sincere determination to build this urgent project" as soon as possible, with or without U. S. cooperation.

Kutches On All-U. P. All-Class Cage Quint

Nahma's Thibault Is Honored; Fred Boddy On Class B Squad Announced By Sports Writers

Pete Kutches, St. Joe's great basketball performer who shattered all existing Upper Peninsula scoring records this season, was honored with an all-class All-U. P. cage berth on the 1952 selections announced today by the Sports Writers Association.

Paul Thibault of unbeaten Nahma, towering Norbert Puro of Ironwood St. Ambrose, classy Terry Thompson of Ishpeming and Barry Garlow of high-powered Mass round out the top five U. P. cagers named by the sports scribes at their annual Spring meeting in Sault Ste. Marie Saturday.

The sports writers selected Escanaba's Fred Boddy to a position on the all-class B U. P. team. Boddy, a junior, was acclaimed one of the cleverest ball handlers in U. P. basketball circles. Other Class B berth went to Joe Steiner of Iron Mountain, Bob Sharland and Terry Thompson of Ishpeming and John Moerchen of Menominee.

Goodman Honored

Kutches headed an all-U. P. Class C quint which included Puro, second highest scorer in the U. P. this season, Johnny Erickson, scoring leader for Stambaugh's Menominee Range champions, Jack Dooley of Marquette Baraga and Spencer Carlson of Houghton's U. P. champion Grem-lins.

Bill Goodman, Rapid River rebound artist, landed a position on the Class D quint. Goodman poured 357 points through the nets for Coach Norman Slough's Rockets and was a standout operator under both baskets. Goodman is a senior, stands 6-2 and weighs 185 pounds. He is a three-letterman in basketball.

Also named to Class D berths were Gerry Erickson of Gwin, Garlow, spectacular Mass cager, Jim Quinnell of Pickford and Duane Girard of Vulcan.

Seymour On E

Coach Harold "Babe" Anderson's champion Nahma club dominated Class E selections. Besides Thibault, the Arrows landed Lawrence Seymour, junior forward performing for the third season on the Nahma varsity, on the Class E quint. Others on the team are Werner Maki of National Mine, Emil Benti of Michigamme and Ray Prosser of Marquette.

The sports writers named 10 honorable mentions in each class. Area cagers honored include Don St. John of Manistique in Class B, Dave Lawrence of Powers, Victor Zar of Rapid River and Don Syriani of Rock in Class D, Wendell Roddy of Nahma, Jim Vallier of Perkins and George Tomasi of Hermansville in Class E.

St. Joe's Kutches rewrote Upper Peninsula scoring records this season as he paced Coach Tom St. Germain's Trojans to the regional Class C finals at Negaunee.

Scoring Record

The 5-10 center burned the nets with 588 points in 20 games for a 29.4 average for the season.

Rough Grid Outlook At Michigan State; Munn

By ROBERT E. VOGES
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—"Things are going to be rough," declared Michigan State football boss Biggie Munn.

Munn, up to his ears in paperwork and planning, was talking about the spring practice session to open here April 14.

Western Conference schools have agreed on a 20-day schedule this year. In previous years, 36 days were allowed.

Lots of Backs

"We'll have to move a lot faster than normal," Munn said. "On top of that we have almost a complete rebuilding job to do."

Munn admitted that he isn't too badly off as far as backfield talent is concerned. His understatement is based on the fact that the overwhelmingly powerful backfield from last year's unbeaten team will return intact with the exception of quarterback Al Dorow.

"You've got to figure that we lost 16 seniors last year," Munn said. "Ten of them were drafted by pro teams. That leaves a terrific hole. Those backs can't go if they haven't got the blockers."

Lost Whole Line

Munn's biggest worry is his offensive line, the outfit that knocks them down to clear the way for the glory grabbers in the backfield. "We lost our entire offensive line, from end to end," Munn said. "In addition we lost some key defense men including Bill Hughes

KUTCHES—St. Joe Trojan center named to the all-class All-U. P. 1952 basketball team by the Upper Peninsula Sports Writers Association. Kutches concluded his fourth year on the Trojan varsity with 1,171 points in 69 games in his prep career.

The St. Joe star is joined on the all-class quint by a pair of potent scorers in Puro and Thompson. The 6-8 Puro hit 567 for St. Ambrose while Thompson finished with 499 for Ishpeming. Puro set a new single-game scoring record for U. P. cagers by pounding 60 points through the hoop against Mass near the end of the season.

Thibault led Nahma to the only undefeated record in the U. P. this year. The 6-2 senior center joined the Nahma varsity as a sophomore and this season set an all-time individual scoring record for Nahma by hitting 367 points in 21 games. Seymour, on the Class E quint, scored 345 for Nahma.

There were three repeaters on the teams named. Thompson was named to Class B and all-class last year, Kutches was on the Class C quint and Erickson on the D team. Lowell Johnson of Negaunee failed to make it this year after being named to all-class and Class B last season.

Curt Simmons To Get Army Release Early Next Month

GOEPFINGEN, Germany (AP)—Sgt. Curt Simmons, southpaw pitcher star of the Philadelphia Phils' 1950 pennant victory, will receive his army discharge early next month.

This was announced today by headquarters of the 28th U. S. Infantry Division, where the 22-year-old Simmons is sergeant in charge of athletics.

The husky youngster from Egypt, Pa., is scheduled to leave for a port of embarkation the first week in April and then take a ship back to the U. S.

The major league pennant races start April 15.

and Bill Horrell, a couple of the best in the business."

Tom Yewic, who worked only part of a few games, and Willie Thrower, who operated mostly as a workhorse in practice, are the only quarterbacks returning with game experience.

"The job is wide open," said Munn of his quarterback position.

Munn said he planned Monday to Friday practices during the four weeks of spring drills allowed by the conference this year. Working hours will be from 4 to 6 p. m. because of the pressure of class-work.

In case of bad weather, lost time will be made up with Saturday sessions.

No Onter-squad Game

There will be no formal intersquad game this year although a squad scrimmage May 10 will wind up the season.

Plans for resodding Macklin Stadium are given as the official reason although there are some who think the de-emphasis trend may account for the junking of the razzle-dazzle windup.

Because of the curtailed practice session, the football hopefuls will be divided into two camps this spring. Munn and his varsity assistants will handle the lettermen and not prospects.

Freshman Coach Danny Devine, assistant Hal Vogler and the graduate assistants will be in charge of the unknowns and third and fourth stringers.

Roe Not Worried By Shaky Mound Start

(By The Associated Press)

Preacher Roe is off to a bad start, but the ace lefthander of the Brooklyn Dodgers isn't worried.

Roe, who posted an amazing 22-3 record last spring, was tagged for 11 hits in six innings yesterday as the Dodgers defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 9-5, at Miami, Fla.

Roe said after the game:

"My control isn't what it should be yet. It was better than last time at least. I'm getting the ball over the plate, but I'm not getting it where I want it."

Roe yielded all of Philadelphia's runs including a two-run homer by Eddie Joost. He left with a 6-5 lead. Young Billy Loes protected the margin.

Loes gave up five hits and twice got out of bases loaded jams. The Dodgers collected only nine hits off a trio of athletic pitchers including a home run by Billy Cox.

Dodger nemesis Bobby Thomson slammed a home run in the eighth inning to give the New York Giants a 7-6 triumph over the Chicago Cubs at Phoenix, Ariz.

Home runs also featured the Cleveland Indians' 7-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox at Tucson, Ariz. Larry Doby clouted a three-run homer and Al Rosen and Jim Fridley followed with bases empty blasts.

Hits Hot Series In First ABC Keg Tournament Try

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The thrill of rolling in his first American Bowling Congress tournament failed to keep Gene Sass, 35, a Milwaukee factory foreman, out of the strike pocket yesterday.

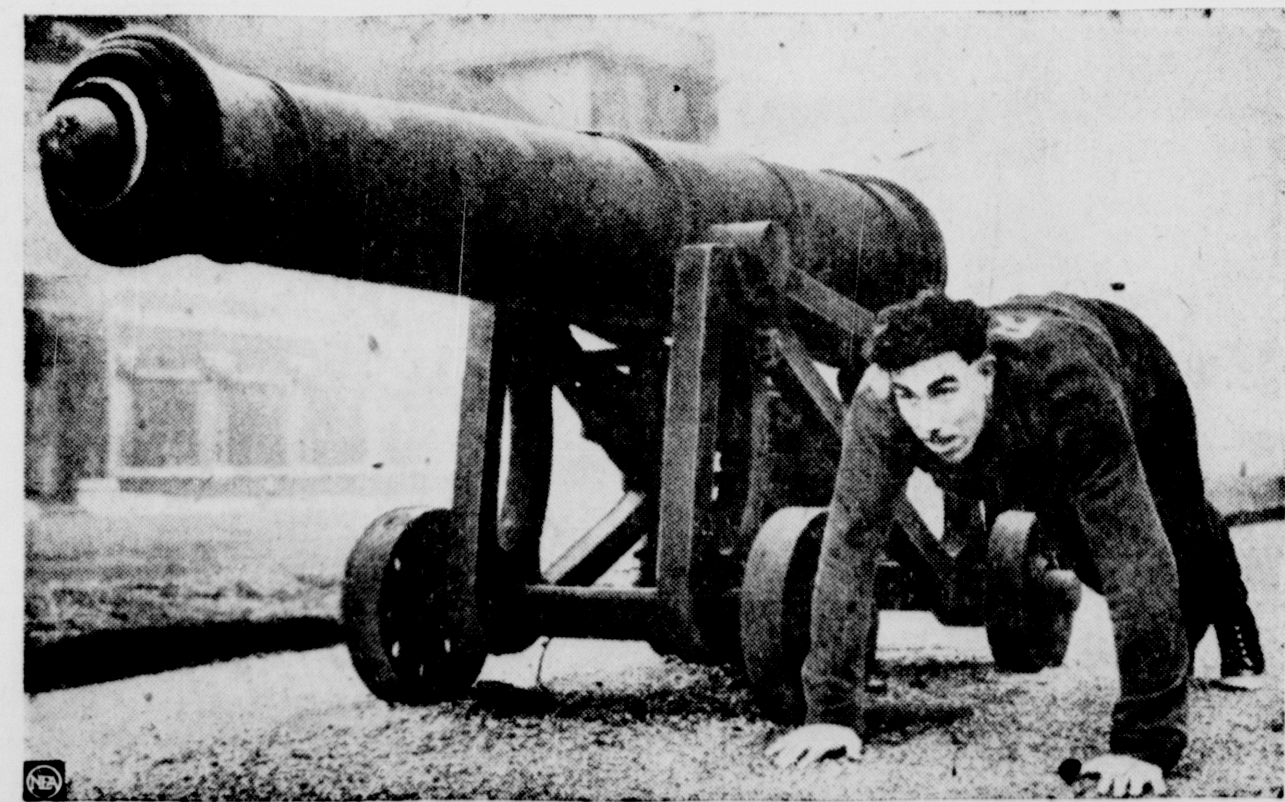

With 10 years of league bowling under his belt, Sass cut loose with 1,876 for first place in the all events. Snacked a big 667 series for third in singles, and paired with Joe Sobolewski, 43-year-old fellow worker, to post 1,232 second place in the doubles.

Sass had 555 in the team event Monday night. His doubles games yesterday were 207, 220 and 227, for 654 and Sobolewski, who also was shooting in his first ABC tourney, had 189, 190 and 199 for 578.

Eight booster and 40 regular teams will bowl today, featuring Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan keggers.

In This Corner

With Ray Crandall

One of the most unusual human interest stories of the year comes out of Houghton this week . . . The story involves a Portage Lake Pioneer hockey fan, Arvid Oikarinen, crippled with arthritis so badly that he must always lie flat on his back . . . Oikarinen wrote a touching letter to Tony Bukovich before the final Northern Michigan Hockey League playoff game . . . We'll let the Houghton Mining Gazette take it from there, as follows:

"Dear Mr. Bukovich: Am writing in regard to your impending game with Marquette. Need I say that game is vital to loyal Portage Lake supporters, to you and the team and to everyone else concerned. The writer is a bedridden arthritic invalid who must lie flat on his back 'all' the time. Need I repeat that the Marquette game means much to me? Next to Almighty God, sports mean more to me than all the medicine in the world.

So, Tony, from the bottom of my heart 'please' tell your teammates to win this one for Arvid. From the opening whistle, play like you never played before. Marquette isn't consistent; they're never won three in a row before so they're riding for a fall. Open with live forwards and skate, men, skate for five minutes at least. I'm sure you'll jump to an early lead.

Here's some instructions that I hope you'll follow: Never leave Luoto (Ray Luoto, Portage goalie) unprotected. Leave one man behind at all times. Don't let Luoto leave his net like he did on a previous occasion. Have your defensemen act as goalies in scrimmages around the net. Freeze the puck more often, especially in the corners and behind the net.

Remember, I'll be listening. Please, please, win this one for me.

Read this to the boys for God has given you health and ability and you'll not fail.

Sincerely, Arvid J. Oikarinen.

P. S.—Open the game fast with you, Mike, Joe and Bernie and ackie Ruelle."

A county plow made a road to Arcadian. Arvid's town, three miles from the main highway. To it went an ambulance. Arvid was placed on a cot and carried out to the waiting conveyance in one of the worst snowfalls the Copper Country has seen this year. At Dee stadium he was brought to the balcony near the press booth where, flat on his back, he observed the game with the aid of a mirror. His joy knew no bounds.

After the game, powerful hands brought the 35-year-old man onto the ice. Here every Pioneer player grasped his blanket in token of you were the best player we had on the ice this afternoon, Arvid." He watched the Pioneers get the huge Gibson trophy filled with flowers. His frame shook with emotion as they carried him back to the ambulance. Presently, the non-playing inspiration of the Pioneers was being conveyed back to his little home on a virtual snowbound Arcadian hill.

Tigers Let Trade Talk Simmer Down

LAKELAND, Fla.—(P)—The Detroit Tigers and the Boston Red Sox are going to let their trade talks simmer for a week or 10 days.

By that time, managers of the teams may be able to decide whether a trade would be mutually beneficial.

Possibilities of a deal between the two American League clubs were the subject of a parley yesterday after their scheduled exhibition game was rained out. The Tigers are represented by Manager Red Rolfe and General Manager Charley Gehring. The Sox were represented by Manager Lou Boudreau, Coach Bill McKechnie and General Manager Joe Cronin.

Still Want Pesky

Nothing was disclosed as to the names of players discussed. But it was announced they would meet again in a week or 10 days.

While the talks were secret, it was understood the Tigers still are trying to get infielder Johnny Pesky from the Sox.

It was understood that Boston was interested in acquiring a second baseman and an outfielder.

A trade of third baseman Pesky for Tiger second baseman Jerry Priddy has been rumored for the past few weeks. Gehring reportedly has rejected, however, trading Priddy for Pesky on even terms.

There's still room for trading, however, Boston wants a right-handed hitting outfielder for Fenway Park's tricky left field wall. Gehring already has indicated he will not trade Hoot Evers to Boston. That leaves Johnny Groth as a trading prospect.

.315 Average
Boston might be winning to trade Pesky and an outfielder like Don Lenhardt for Groth. This speculation is based on the idea that Pesky doesn't fit into Manager Boudreau's plans as a regular this season.

Detroit needs a good infielder and Pesky might just fill the bill—particularly at shortstop. The 32-year-old left-handed hitter has a lifetime big league batting average of .315. He has hit under .300 only once in his career dating back to 1940.

But the Tiger management—as well as Boston—seems to be in a mood to go slow on any trades at this time. The latest Tiger acquisition—Ken Johnson, a southpaw from the Philadelphia Phillies for a reported consideration of $15,000.

Johnson Flops
The 29-year-old Johnson has pitched only two innings so far in a Tiger uniform. He gave up nine hits, three walks and 10 runs.

But Manager Rolfe still has hopes for his newest pitcher. "I'm convinced that he is a pitcher on the order of Tommy Byrne who used to be with the New York Yankees," Rolfe said. "He needs work, lots of work."

The Tiger pitching department has shone the brightest on the Grapefruit circuit. The Tigers have won seven games and lost eight so far and they seem to have done as well as they have mostly because of the pitching. Only two players, Groth and George Kell, have been hitting over the .300 mark. Groth has a .342 average and Kell has .307.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Q. How many bases did Hector Rodriguez, the White Sox' new speed merchant, steal last season?

A. The 31-year-old Cuban Negro, playing at Montreal, led the International League with 26.

Q. Did Bob Cerv, the Yankees' rookie outfielder, ever play college ball?
A. Yes, at Nebraska. He also starred in basketball. The American Association's 1951 batting champion, the only boy in his family, learned his first baseball from three sisters, all good enough to play in a Weston, Neb., softball league.

Q. Is Sammy White, the rookie catcher the Boston Red Sox are so high on, the same youngster who played basketball at the University of Washington?

A. Yes. Seems as though college basketball is producing lots of pro baseball material these days. White was the Huskie's top All-America candidate for three seasons.

The complete home schedules of the Los Angeles and Hollywood Pacific Coast League teams will be televised this season.

Out Of Game
Detroit's Leo Reisse and Toronto's Jim Thompson drew 10-minute misconduct penalties and game misconduct penalties that sent them to the showers. They automatically drew $75 in fines.

The previous record of 24 for most penalties in a game was set in 1949 by the Red Wings and the Montreal Canadiens during the regular season. The playoff record was 21 set by Toronto and Boston last year.

In all 88 minutes in penalties were called.

During the second period the penalty box was occupied for 15:15 of the 20 minutes.

"There wasn't much chance to play hockey," said Smythe. "But we'll be back in there Thursday."

Spartan Rooters
Rooting for Davey at ringside will be some eight busloads of rooters from the youthful left-hander's home town. These will be augmented by 200 Michigan State alumni members from the Chicago area and two cheer leaders from the Spartan campus.

If Davey should win, he will be in line for big time bouts with either Gil Turner or Johnny Saxton—both unbeaten. A victory against either of these fighters might lead to a shot at Kid Gavilan's welterweight crown.

Williams, who has a rematch agreement with Carter, said he wouldn't hold the champ to the agreement if he fails to beat Davey. Williams said he didn't think Davey's southpaw style would bother him. He added:

"It isn't style that wins fights, it's punches."

Davey Will Have To Get Mean To Defeat Ex-Champ Williams

CHICAGO — (P)—Some boxing ticks think Chuck Davey is too much of a polite pugilist and will shake off the nice guy tonight if he hopes to defeat the sea-scarred Ike Williams. They will tangle in a nationally televised 10 rounder (10 p. m. T.) in Chicago stadium.

Davey is a 26-year-old insurance executive with a masters' degree in education administration in Michigan State and with a determined longing to become the world's welterweight champion.

He also is a pretty good fighter with a perplexing portside style, has never really been tested in a classy mauler. He's as narrated as a newly laid egg.

One Draw
Davey's record is 30 victories, one draw as a pro after campaigning through 150 amateur bouts in the Army, NCAA and Golden Gloves. He has scored knockouts in his pro career.

His build up against second and third raters has been painstakingly slow to his first big main event showdown.

Williams, 28, lost his lightweight crown to Jimmy Carter 11 months ago. He is a veteran of scraps, winning 115, losing 29, drawing in four. At one time he was recognized among the best and best punchers in the class. He is credited with 58 knockouts.

During drills for Davey, Ike has been hitting with his old authority and observers say he is proper than he has been for months.

Chicago Ike rules an 8-5 favorite. However, in New York City he is reported a 9-5 choice.

scholarly Davey during training.

"Although Williams looks like he is back in condition, I still think Davey has a good chance," said Tendler. "But the kid has to forget his nice stuff inside the ring and become mean. I think Chuck still feels like a college boy—when he gets an opponent in trouble he hasn't followed up because he apparently didn't want to take advantage of a beaten man."

Tendler, who once collected $193,000 in two losing brawls with the late Benny Leonard, is the "show-em-no-mercy" type and wants Davey to be that way.

"I've tried to impress upon Davey that the minute he lets up against a guy like Williams he will be knocked out," Tendler said.

Davey frankly admits that he is a boxer and not a hitter and will "have to beat Williams with what I have."

Spartan Rooters
Rooting for Davey at ringside will be some eight busloads of rooters from the youthful left-hander's home town. These will be augmented by 200 Michigan State alumni members from the Chicago area and two cheer leaders from the Spartan campus.

If Davey should win, he will be in line for big time bouts with either Gil Turner or Johnny Saxton—both unbeaten. A victory against either of these fighters might lead to a shot at Kid Gavilan's welterweight crown.

Williams, who has a rematch agreement with Carter, said he wouldn't hold the champ to the agreement if he fails to beat Davey. Williams said he didn't think Davey's southpaw style would bother him. He added:

"It isn't style that wins fights, it's punches."

Leaning Tower Of Pisa May Fall In 2100 A. D.

By DR. LORENZO PISPISA
AP Newsfeatures

PISA, Italy—If you want to do what thousands of other Americans have done and be photographed in front of the Leaning Tower of Pisa, do it before 2,100 A. D.

Why? Because although the Tower has shown no dangerous new tilt lately, normal deterioration is expected to bring it tumbling down in about 150 years unless new restoration work is done.

However, for the present it is as safe as the Tower has been in years. Reports had circulated in the Italian press, after the recent North Italy floods, that the Tower had tilted further to a dangerous point.

No Immediate Danger

"The old and solid tower is in no immediate danger of collapsing," said Dr. I. Nocchioli, surveyor who daily checks the delicate seismographs and inclinometers inside the tower.

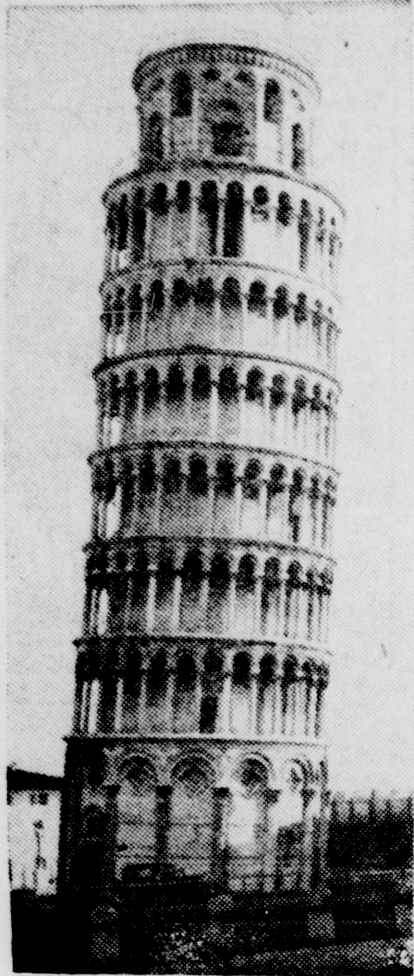

Some years ago, an extensive survey was made of the ground on which the Tower is built. The conclusion was that there is no danger that the Tower, whose foundations were laid in 1174, would collapse for 150 years.

The Tower leaned dangerously in 1175, when its construction had reached 33 feet from the ground. The ground gave way on its southern side for about 5 inches in depth. Architect Bonanno tried to correct the inclination until the fourth order of arches, but he did not succeed and gave up the construction.

Sixty years later the construction was resumed by Wilhelm of Innsbruck, who added another three orders of arches (floors) to the Tower. Like his predecessor he gave up.

In 1350, Tommaso Pisano completed the bell tower, straightening it a little with respect of the rest of the building. The completed building was 181.2 feet on the northern side and 177.5 feet on the southern side. Its present inclination is about one tenth of its height. Originally it was almost three feet less.

The first scientific studies on the inclination were made in 1817, by the English professors Grey and Taylor. France's Prof. Fleury conducted further studies towards the middle of the last century.

In the same period Italian architect Della Gherardesca dug out the basement of the Tower, which had been filled in by floods.

Studies on how to consolidate the ground around the Tower were conducted in this century by Prof. Girometti and completed in 1932 by large cement and concrete injections.

A complete network of tunnels was dug. In the holes almost one ton of liquid cement was poured to reinforce the Tower foundations.

During the war, the U.S. 5th Army faced the Germans across the Arno River at Pisa for weeks. Several shells exploded near the Tower, although Allied soldiers carefully avoided shooting at it even when the Germans used it for an observation post.

As a result of the explosions, a slight tilt of seven-tenths of a millimeter was recorded after the war.

Sale Of Gateway Inn Contemplated

LAND O'LAKES, Wis.—John Garber, 34, who managed the lavish Gateway Inn here for the late millionaire, John H. King, is negotiating to buy the resort.

Garber said Monday that the resort would be purchased from Mrs. John H. King, who now lives in California. She is the former Miss Sarah (Sugar) Demers, a Watersmeet (Mich.) beautician whom King married in 1947. Garber married Mrs. King's sister, King died at his home in California on Jan. 2. He was 77.

All that Garber would say about the purchase price was that it would be less than a million dollars. He said he would have to get a loan to swing the deal.
